Huston Denies Fund Charges Made By His Critics

CLAIMS FACTS TWISTED BY HIS ENEMIES

Republican Chairman Alleges Whispering Campaign Started Against Him

Washington — (AP) — Chairman Claudius Huston of the Republican National committee, confronted his critics today with a stout denial of their charges that he had engaged in lobbying or used funds of the Tennessee River improvement association to cover a deficit in his brokerage account.

Striking back, he alleged a whispering campaign had been conducted against him and that accusations aimed at him were either fabrications or "distortions of the real facts," inspired by "partisan or factional motives."

Before the senate lobby committee, Huston testified several months ago he had received as president of the Tennessee River improvement association $36,100 from the Union Carbide company and deposited the money with his brokerage firm, Blith and Bonner of New York. This was paid and deposited in two sums $22,000 and $14,100.

He also told the committee of his activities as head of the improvement association, which is interested in Muscle Shoals legislation and advocated the acceptance of the bid of the American Cyanamid company for the Alabama plant.

His denial was contained in a letter sent to members of the Republican National committee, and made public last night after a Washington newspaper had obtained a copy of it. It was his first public expression on the subject since his appearance before the committee, except for a denial that he intended resigning as head of the party.

The letter quoted a communication from Blith and Bonner, saying the $22,000 deposit had not been entered in response to a call for margin or other demand for additional funds. All the money paid to him by the Union Carbide company was "properly disbursed and accounted for," he said. "A month and a day" before he became chairman of the national committee.

$400,000 FIRE LOSS REPORTED AT WINNIPEG

Winnipeg — (AP) — Fire today destroyed the Vetracraft workshop, a large warehouse operated by the civil re-establishment department. Almost simultaneously another fire swept the lumber yard and plant of the Caledonia Paper and Box company and spread to the plant of the Prairie City Oil company where several of the smaller tanks in the storage yards exploded.

A drenching rain, which followed a night of high wind, helped firemen bring the blaze under control. The fires, believed to have been deliberately set, caused damage estimated at $400,000.

WEALTHY CHEMICAL VICTIM OF POISON

Death Believed Accidental—Victim Eloped With Princess in 1915

Fair Haven, N. J. — (AP) — Poison, apparently taken by accident today was declared officially to have caused the death of Donald Shields Andrews, wealthy chemical engineer, who in 1915 when a student at Yale eloped with a princess.

His partner in the sensational elopement, Mrs. Alma V. Hayne, also known as the Princess Vetsera of Austria, took her life by drinking poison at the second Victory ball in London in 1913.

Andrews was found dead Tuesday in the $200,000 laboratory he built on the banks of the Sheshegan river and in which he recently spent much time endeavoring to make precious stones synthetically.

He had gone to the laboratory at 4 o'clock a. m. with John Ross, a friend and associate and his body was discovered by the latter upon his return to the laboratory after a brief absence.

Chief of Police Heidon said that a drinking glass partly filled with water was on the floor beside the body. A container of poison was on the table and in the waste basket was another drinking glass that Dr. Harvey W. Hartman, Monmouth-physician, said contained possibly traces of poison.

Dr. Hartman issued a certificate of accidental death after an autopsy had been performed which disclosed traces of poison. Prosecutor Jonas Tumen said that although the investigation was still open he was convinced death was accidental. He said Andrews had no business or domestic troubles, but recently had been under the care of a physician for a nervous trouble.

He was the son of Matthew Andrews of Cleveland, a business associate of Marcus A. Hanna. At the time of his elopement with Mrs. Hayne, he was said to have eluded private detectives employed by his family to prevent the marriage. He and Mrs. Hayne, however, were married in Mammoth, N. Y., April 24, 1915.

She said she was the natural daughter of Crown Prince Rudolph of Austria and the Baroness Marie Vetsera who were found dead together in a hunting lodge in 1889. Prior to her marriage with Andrews she had been divorced from a captain of the British Flying corps. After their marriage, Andrews and his bride sailed for Europe but he returned alone a month later and they later were divorced.

Andrews later married Hilah Reed and they lived on an estate at Rumson, near here.

ORDER BROKER OFF EXCHANGE DURING YEAR

Secret Irregular Transactions Given as Cause for Suspension

New York — (AP) — The New York Stock exchange today announced the temporary suspension of Alexander B. Johnson, floor member of the firm of Throckmorton and Company.

Johnson's suspension is for one year. A statement issued by the New York Stock exchange said: "The substance of the charge and specification was that between November, 1929, and April, 1930, the firm of Throckmorton and Company, which had previously organized a fixed investment trust under which the Chatham Phenix National Bank and Trust company was trustee, had certain transactions with said trust in which the firm of Throckmorton and Company realized secret profits.

"These profits were made by the connivance of two of the partners of Throckmorton and Company with an employee of the trustee. These two partners received information in advance as to the amount of rights or of stock dividends which the trustee was to sell under the terms of the trust indenture. They thereupon sold for the account of Throckmorton and Company the equivalent amount of rights or stock and thereafter purchased, for the trustee, the amount which it had to sell at prices which were lower than the prices that the firm itself had realized.

TWO PARTNERS QUIT

"The two partners concerned in these transactions have since resigned. Full restitution has been made and it appeared that none of the remaining partners of Throckmorton and Company had any personal knowledge of these practices."

The names of the two partners involved were not disclosed. Johnson was the only floor member of the Throckmorton firm.

W. Irving Throckmorton, senior partner of the firm, issued the following statement:

"I learned with deep regret of the temporary suspension of Mr. Johnson, our floor member for the exchange.

"Mr. Johnson and our entire firm as now constituted happen to be the unfortunate victims of a practice carried on without our knowledge. I am glad to say that no one except ourselves can possibly suffer any loss or account of this practice."

Announcement of the suspension was read from the rostrum of the exchange by Richard Whitney, president.

Open exchange contracts of the Throckmorton firm will be assumed by Jenks, Gwynne and Company.

GETS HIS CITIZEN PAPERS IN SPITE OF FINE ONCE PAID

Green Bay — (AP) — Despite Uncle Sam's stringent rules that persons convicted of crimes can not become citizens, Camillo Zanella today proudly displayed his final citizenship papers, and Camillo had been convicted and fined $5 for an offense in Milwaukee.

"Were you ever arrested?" Judge Henry Graess asked during examination yesterday.

"Yes," admitted Camillo.

"That wasn't so good, mused the judge.

"Were you convicted?"

"Yes," Camillo said. "I was fined $5."

"What for?"

"Shooting firecrackers in Milwaukee on the first day of July."

Celebrating Independence day, even in a sense, was not a cause for denying citizenship papers, Judge Graess ruled.

U. S. PUBLISHER AT MUSEUM IN GERMANY

Munich, Bavaria — (AP) — Adolph S. Ochs, American publisher, today visited the famous Deutsche Technische museum and its founder, Oscar von Miller. He said he trusted close cooperation to the mutual benefit of each would ensue between Munich and Chicago where a similar museum is being built.

Mr. Ochs expressed the belief that Germany was bound to recover economically and that she would be able to pay her debts as she was in the best position to commercialize new inventions. The creditor nations therefore in their own interest need to extend a helping hand to Germany, he said.

ACCIDENT DELAYS BOAT OUT TO SET NEW RECORD

Baton Rouge, La. — (AP) — Disabled for approximately 12 hours after striking a piece of driftwood, the Miss Greenville, motor speedboat endeavoring to set a new time record between New Orleans and St. Louis, again pointed its nose up the river today while its crew of three maintained that the delay had not shaken their hopes.

The repairs were made at an isolated place and the exact time for the resumption of the dash was not learned.

The driftwood damaged the boat's propeller shaft just above the late yesterday. Captain Elmo Schelbin, and his mechanic George Schweizer, repaired the damage unassisted.

Fred Schelbin, mayor of Greenville and father of the boat's captain, and Tommy White, airplane pilot, who are accompanying the speedster by air, spent last night at a Baton Rouge hotel, but hoped to overtake the boat at Greenville.

The "Miss Greenville" is attempting to break the record of 87 hours and 31 minutes set in 1923 by the "Bogie," owned by Dr. Louis Leroy, of Memphis.

Dr. Leroy at Memphis said he wished the "Miss Greenville" sponsors "all the luck in the world."

Gossips Busy Discussing Carol And Princess Helen

Bucharest — (AP) — From palace circles today there was gossip which some accepted as indication that convention and outraged pride led Princess Helen to remain firm in her refusal to return to King Carol but that her less mundane heart still belonged to the father of her child. It was told that Sunday afternoon King Carol visited the Kisselhoff palace, where she is residing while he remains at the Cotroceni palace and inadvertently ran into the princess mother at the head of a staircase. They exchanged pleasantries and he passed on.

Turning to one of her ladies-in-waiting, Princess Helen exclaimed, her hand on her heart: "Ah, but he is grown so handsome!" She heaved a sigh and her bosom swelled with emotion before she turned and continued downstairs.

There is other gossip that the grand volonte, Michael, their eight-year-old son, may bring about their reunion. He divides his time between his mother and father.

The young grand volonte is said to be most delighted at having his father back again, and in his childish manner to be exerting himself to heal the rift between the two parents.

When the queen mother, Marie, returns Saturday from a visit to the Passion play at Oberammergau, Bavaria, she will be met at the railway station by King Carol who longs now, it is said, to heal the wounds caused by estrangement from his family. In Vienna yesterday Queen Marie said she had no higher hope than to see Carol succeed as king and to see Helen by his side as queen.

Not all of Carol's time is occupied with family matters. Juhu Maniu, former premier, told him last night that he would be unable to form a cabinet, and Carol asked General Prezan, not connected with any party, to see if he could succeed. M. Maniu promised to support General Prezan, who commanded the Rumanian troops during the World war.

ZIZI WON'T RETURN

Paris — (AP) — Mme. Zizi Lambrino, who was the morganatic wife of King Carol of Rumania before he married Princess Helen of Greece, told Excelsior today that she had no intention of attempting to establish any legal claim on Carol, nor starting for Bucharest.

"I have not the slightest intention of trying to get any rights either for myself or for my son," she said. "My marriage was, I don't cease to repeat, perfectly legal and I have a legal certificate of marriage. I had not at any time any ambition being Rumanian I knew perfectly well that I could not be queen but it is equitable to prevent my son from having a father."

"It is untrue that I am leaving for Bucharest next July as every year I go to Moldavia where I have property, remaining there during my son's school vacation. But the trip has no connection with present events."

Housewife or Grocer

Whose interest should come first

A & P, though a grocer itself, votes for the housewife. She has a right to as much good food as her money can buy under the most favorable conditions.

Not everyone takes this view. By some strange reasoning certain people see harm to human welfare in cutting your food bill. 'A & P' cuts your food bill to the minimum. So these people are against A & P.

They are all for raising the standard of living—provided their profits go up the same slope. How the housewife is to pay her part . . . that, they say, is her affair, not the grocer's.

A few noisy politicians have taken up the cry, shouting "Away with low profits!" as loudly as, when it suited their purpose to denounce profiteers, they shouted "Away with high profits!"

But A & P sticks to its knitting. Its job is the same today as it was seventy years ago . . . to make it easier for more housewives to buy the best food.

That's A & P's story in a nutshell.

MAYOR DISCUSSES PROBLEMS OF CITY FOR KIWANIS CLUB

Appleton is in Bad Financial Condition, He Reports at Luncheon

The depleted finances of the city, and some of the problems confronting the present city administration were described by Mayor John Goodland in address before the Kiwanis club at Conway hotel Wednesday noon.

Stating that the city is in a worse financial condition than it ever has been before, Mayor Goodland, told the Kiwanians that by June 15 the city will have borrowed $55,000 so far this year, merely to meet fixed expenses. When he took office on April 15, if all bills had been paid that were owed, money would have had to have been borrowed from the bank, despite the fact that the annual collection of taxes had just been completed. His objective in office, he said, is to return the city finances to a healthy condition.

He showed that the city gets only $300,000 of the $1,200,000 tax roll, and that receipts from licenses, income, telephone and power company taxes are about $225,000. The fixed expenses, including salaries and actual departmental expenses, amount to $322,000, which includes no upkeep of streets, sewers, sidewalks, etc. In his review of expenditures he expressed a fear as to the cost of the poor department next year, if unemployment continues.

EXPLAINS OILING COST
The speaker explained why street repairs cost $21,000 last year, and how much of this was taken from the general fund. Streets were oiled last year, he said, at a cost of from 20 to 30 cents a foot, and only 10 cents a foot was charged to the property owner. This year the entire cost of 10 cents a foot is charged to the taxpayer as well as the cost of all grading and graveling.

He justified his attitude opposing the appropriation of $300 to send the high school band to Washington by stating that the city's general fund is getting to be a grab bag and that he felt that taxes are not collected for this sort of thing. He expressed a desire to see every junior high school student go to Washington at graduation time, but felt that they should be made to earn their own money.

Discussing the delay in resurfacing Oneida-st, Mayor Goodland explained the advisability of installing the Oneida-st storm sewer before the resurfacing is begun, and stated that because of the inconvenience an obstructed street would cause, the street would not be torn up until after the Spanish War Veterans convention on June 27.

He said that the oiling of the Pierce park driveway just prior to the last band concert was done by the park board and not by the city. He commended the cooperation of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company in removing the tracks and explained the program they will follow.

MAYOR RECEIVES LETTER MAILED TO HIM 18 YEARS AGO

Through no fault of the postal department, Mayor John Goodland received a letter Tuesday that was mailed to him on May 31, 1912, when he was occupying the same office in the city hall as a member of the commission form of government in Appleton. Unable to lock a drawer in his desk, Mayor Goodland had the janitor take out the drawer. Wedged behind it were three old letters that had slipped behind the roll top years ago. The one, dated 1912, was a questionnaire in reference to George N. Dandelson, now a state employee; another, dated June 7, 1918, gave instructions about Bean Sunday, and the third, dated April 14, 1923, dealt with a fire chiefs' convention.

again is ringing insistently with demands that some action be taken to keep dogs from ruining gardens and flower beds. City ordinance provides that all dogs be leashed during May, June, July, and August, and unless owners recognize this law, it will be necessary to hire a dog catcher or instruct the police department to shoot unleashed dogs, he pointed out.

STREET PAVING, ZONING STUDIED AT LEAGUE MEET

Wisconsin Municipalities Body in Annual Convention at Marinette

Marinette.—(P)—Utilities, street paving, zoning and purchasing procedure formed the subjects for discussion at the 32nd annual convention of the League of Wisconsin Municipalities here today.

Organization of a city plan commission was recommended as the first step in zoning procedure by J. M. Albers of the Chicago Regional Planning association. Zoning ordinances should be made by the commission and then reported for adoption, he said.

Central purchasing of materials, supplies and equipment will effect savings for a municipality, Joseph W. Nicholson, purchasing agent of Milwaukee, told the convention. Such a system reduces sales costs, secures quantity discounts, permits the adoption of commodity standards and results in careful scrutiny of quality before acceptance, he said.

R. S. Malloy of the Wisconsin Tax commission told the convention how a municipality may install a simple accounting system. He urged the adoption of a centralized record of all village financial transactions in order to provide information as to the current flow of cash and the profit and loss of municipal utilities.

The advantages of having a municipal utility operated by a water and electric commission were discussed by F. A. Reynolds of the Wisconsin Tax commission before the convention. Municipal utilities operated as separate entities from municipal undertakings have shown the most efficient progress, he said. When operated by special boards, municipal utilities usually keep proper financial and operating records, and the proper interest is taken in developing the municipal utilities.

The advantages of constructing street pavement with municipal forces was outlined by Assistant City Engineer A. L. Boley of Sheboygan. Doing work by force account makes it possible to eliminate only the contractors' profit, but also the certain necessary fixed overhead charges of interest on borrowed money, cost of contractor bonds, cost of importing and exporting of equipment, the expenses of the several contractors figuring on the jobs, the cost of board and lodging of such of the contractors crew as he usually brings with him, and in many cases, the time he must necessarily lose due to unfavorable weather conditions, Boley said.

LOOK FOR WISCONSIN FISHERY APPROPRIATION

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington.—While the deficiency appropriation bill reported to the house of representatives Wednesday does not provide an appropriation for the $50,000 fish cultural station authorized for southern Wisconsin, it is expected that the appropriation will be included in a Senate amendment.

The president recently approved the five-year fisheries program bill, authorizing the Wisconsin station to be built during the fiscal year 1931, beginning July 1, 1930, and further authorizing the Bureau of Fisheries to make studies for the development of the fisheries of the Great Lakes and other inland lakes.

The Bureau of the Budget has not yet sent estimates to congress for the appropriations needed for the first year's work. The Bureau of Fisheries, however, presented the need for the funds to the Bureau of the Budget last Saturday, and it is expected that the president will ask for the Wisconsin appropriation before the appropriation bill finally passes and that it will be written into the bill.

Peshtigo River Offers Fish Of Many Varieties

BY B. A. CLAFLIN

Just recently, in a bunch of inquiries received from various localities, was one from a resident of Marinette-co which read in part as follows: "Can you point out any stream or lake in Marinette-co where walleyed pike can be taken with hook and line? If you know of any such water, what lures will serve to catch them?"

It was really amusing to know that my inquirer lives within a few miles of the stream which I informed him he would find good walleye water. The stream I referred him to was the Peshtigo river, and the region between the city of Peshtigo and Bagley Junction. He lost no time in making a trip there. Upon his return home, he wrote me a letter of thanks, stating that he had made a catch of six of these excellent fish. Also, he said he had lived for many years in his present home but never knew of walleyes being in the Peshtigo river.

Up to about three years ago, however, as far as I know, there was no fishing to be had there. But, since that time, the fish have been making it their headquarters; or, at least, have shown a willingness to bite. Anyhow, they are there, and they can be caught. I have taken them on certain well known plugs having a scale fish. They will also take shiner minnows, but these are not always available. Besides, why bother with them when an artificial lure like I have mentioned is so much more convenient, a whole lot cheaper and practically indisputable?

The Peshtigo is, and always has been, a wonderful stream for fish of many varieties. Many think that black bass are not to be found in that river, but they are.

Just recently, word came to me from Charley McVane of Twin Bridge Lodge, that just previous to the opening of the pike season, May 25th, the bass were up in the little bay, which leads from the river to the resort, in countless numbers. They came in to spawn. After this was over, they returned to the pond. That means good sport for those who know how to fish them.

For years the Northern pike fishing has drawn hundreds of people who enjoy a tussle with the big cannibals. Up to just recently, however, the fishing this year has not been quite satisfactory. But now the fish have begun biting. A reputable angler reported a catch last Sunday of one eleven pound specimen, two of five and six pounds each and several slightly under those weights. Cold nights may have been the cause of their reluctance to bite.

Farther upstream, beyond the power dams, some excellent catches of trout have been made this season, and the fish were of good size. To sum it all up, what other stream in the state has such a variety of fish? Personally, I know of none, and I have visited about all of them. Many of its tributaries contain trout. For instance, the Thunder River. You no longer can catch a hundred trout in

BILL WOULD HELP RED BOYS TO GET EDUCATION LOANS

Schneider Helped to Include
Terms in Appropriation Measure

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent

Washington.—Indian youths in Wisconsin can obtain loans to enable them to attend the University of Wisconsin or other educational institutions under the terms of an appropriation provided in the deficiency appropriation bill reported to the House of Representatives Wednesday.

Rep. George J. Schneider of Appleton called to the attention of the appropriations committee the need for such a provision in the law according to Rep. Louis Cramton of Michigan, who largely governs the committee's attitude on appropriations for Indian projects.

The bill provides that the appropriations previously made for "industry among the Indians" for the fiscal years 1931 and 1932, that is from July 1, 1930 through June 30, 1931, shall be available for making advances to worthy Indian youths to enable them to take educational courses, including special courses in nursing, home economics, forestry, and other industrial subjects, the advance to be repaid by the youths.

A day, but you can get enough to make a day of effort there very interesting and satisfactory.

LIONS CLUB TO MEET AT GRANGERS' HALL

The program committee of the Lions club will meet Monday evening, June 23, at the New Greenville Grangers' building at South Greenville. The meeting will take place at the regular Monday noon luncheon at Corway hotel. Farmers of the vicinity of Greenville will be invited, and wives and lady friends will be guests.

Advances to be reimbursed within eight years by the young Indian men and women taking advantage of the loans.

Indian Commissioner C. J. Rhoads said that this provision was very desirable, because the exceptional person could qualify for self-support by taking a little educational training.

Rep. Cramton said, during the closed hearings on the appropriation bill which were made public when the bill was reported.

"This first came to my attention through Representative Schneider of Wisconsin, in connection with some Menominee Indians. The Menominees have some two or five million dollars to their credit, and some of these boys were enabled to get an education through such advances, which they then repaid to the tribe."

"Now this goes further, and will make possible advances to boys and girls where the tribe do not have funds."

The Menominees would have a good balance for such loans, bureau officials said, and Commissioner Rhoads added that it was thought that, in view of the large number of resources of the Menominees it might be well to turn some of the young Menominees in forestry.

WHERE PROHIBITION FAILS

George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's law enforcement commission, in an unexpected declaration has struck prohibition in its most vulnerable spot. His point is that the present dry laws are too harsh and they have failed in their objects because they stressed punishment rather than education of the country to the idea of temperance. That is the whole situation in a nutshell. The reaction to legislative dictum to regulate personal conduct to the extent prohibition has undertaken is unhealthy and logically so. Thousands of men and women are drinking today who practically never touched liquor before prohibition, partly as a protest, partly for the adventure and partly because of a social and moral letdown following the war.

"Where the law is the expression of the will of a mere legislative majority," says Mr. Wickersham, "and does not reflect the general views of the community, the lawmaking power frequently if not generally seeks to compel obedience by excessive penalties, although this method seldom accomplishes its objects." That is exactly what has happened under prohibition. It is an extreme which the people simply will not tolerate. Because it is an extreme it has resulted in a breakdown of the educational gains that had been made against liquor and the liquor traffic. Much if not most that had been achieved in the direction of temperance before the eighteenth amendment was adopted has been lost.

Education which thoroughly comprehends the evils of liquor, in its effects not only upon the person and health but on one's whole life, is the only sensible and permanent solution of this difficult problem. The present debauch will not go on forever. The next generation will see plenty of bad examples, plenty of evidence of the vicious consequences of alcoholic indulgence. Men and women will not punish themselves with drink indefinitely. They will finally wake up to the fact that liquor, good or bad, is a detriment to their health, happiness and well-being.

Mr. Wickersham's criticism of prohibition is extremely significant. Like the frank stand taken by Mr. Morrow, it is one of the straws which are beginning to point the way toward a modification of the position heretofore taken by both political parties.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

The public was surprised by the favorable report of a bill in the senate for Philippine independence. Though the islanders have been promised their freedom formally and repeatedly by our government, there has never been anything very specific about the promise. The present measure calls for a five-year period of test and plebiscite, the drafting of a constitution for a free and independent government and the ratification of that constitution by the islanders themselves. It is at least important as a concrete proposal and a starting point for honest discussion.

It is suggested that the reasons for making such a proposal at this time are bound up with the tariff situation, the London treaty and various other matters of politics. There are statesmen who would free the Philippines in order to help American sugar producers by making it possible to lay a heavy tariff on Philippine sugar, which cannot be done at present. There are statesmen who say that we might as well let the Philippines go now because under the naval pact we can defend them nor use them as a base of operations in the far east. There are others who say that they are not worth defending, and that we do not wish to be involved in military operations in the Far east. And there are still others who, harking back to the Declaration of Independence, the constitution and the traditions of the fathers, declare that it is un-American to assert the right to govern any other people against its will.

There will be a lively and notable debate if this measure comes up for serious consideration.

CHICAGO GANG KILLINGS

Apparently that peace pact which the Chicago gangs fixed up a month or so ago did not have enough teeth in it. Maybe it failed because underworld psychology is not quite ready for a super-state yet, and maybe the boys just naturally did not take it seriously; at any rate, the machine guns are swinging again, and the casualty list is resuming the proportions of the good old days. So ends Chicago's breathing space, amid a clatter of fire-arms. Dead bodies are being found beside lonely roads once more, and firing squads are on the prowl again; the police are finding "known gangsters" immersed in their own gore, and this, that or the other gang is getting the credit, or otherwise, for this, that or the other murder.

All in all, the city at the foot of Lake Michigan seems to have slipped back to normal; and people who like to be driven to alarm by these violent outbursts on the part of our urban civilization have at hand the material for a new fit of the heebie-jeebies. We are pretty well used to our big-city gangs now, and they do not worry or shock us as they used to; nevertheless, there is one bit of foggy thinking that these killings usually bring out, and we might as well take the time to get straight on it.

This particular bit of irrationality is a reflection that generally runs something like this: after all, it is only the gangsters that get killed. Each of these outbursts simply removes from circulation a citizen whom we can very well do without. Why get worried? Is it not, in the long run, to society's interest to have these yeggs put one another out of the way? On the surface, that looks reasonable. But it is not the whole story.

Every gangland killing simply entrenches the gangs more firmly in power. Every time one group of cut-throats machine guns a rival group, it merely convinces every member of the underworld that he and his kind are beyond the reach of organized society as represented by the police and the courts. Every underworld murder establishes the chiefs of gangland, more securely than before, as a law unto themselves. For those reasons it is impossible for society to derive any satisfaction out of this string of murders.

These killings are nothing but the gangsters' way of making sure that they can continue to prey on society unmolested. There is a new recruit to take the place of every hoodlum that gets bumped off. When we try to tell ourselves that we need not be alarmed because one more beer-runner has been shot to death we are just kidding ourselves—in a very dangerous way.

DISEASE IN PRISONS

It is not a part of any enlightened penal or reformatory system to give prisoners preventable diseases while in prison. Judges do not sentence convicted men to suffering and death by tuberculosis or typhoid. Yet such are the conditions in many prisons that well men become ill and sick men grow worse and die without proper medical care, isolation or preventive measures.

One state which has been checking up on conditions in its penal institutions finds that overcrowding and lack of physical examinations have resulted in a high disease rate and high mortality. It has found that within one prison the death rate from tuberculosis was 42 per cent of all deaths while the rate for the community outside the prison was only 7 per cent. For the entire state during a specified period, the death rate from tuberculosis was 118.3 per 100,000 of population while within the prison it was 621.5. During a period in which the state death rate from this one cause decreased 50 per cent, the prison rate increased 3 per cent.

Such a state of affairs, of course, affects the entire community. Not all the men within prison walls are serving life terms. Many of them come out at the expiration of their sentences or under parole too ill to earn their living. They infect other members of the community and may become public charges. If civilized, humanitarian motives are not enough to arouse citizens to end such conditions, the instinct of self-preservation should do so.

The native inhabitants of Porto Rico are citizens of the United States.

ROEBLING'S BIRTH

On June 12, 1806, John A. Roebling, the engineer who designed the Brooklyn Bridge, the first great span across the East river between Brooklyn and New York, was born at Mulhausen, Prussia.

He studied civil engineering at the Polytechnic school of Berlin and at the age of 25 came to America, settling near Pittsburgh. After holding several jobs on the slack water navigation of the Beaver river, young Roebling was appointed to survey a route across the Allegheny river by the Pennsylvania Railroad. He then began the manufacture of wire rope and in 1844 replaced the wooden aqueduct of the Pennsylvania canal across the Allegheny river by a suspension aqueduct.

After he completed four suspension aqueducts on the Delaware and Hudson Canal, he established his works at Trenton, N. J. His next contracts called for the building of the great suspension bridge over the Niagara river and the Cincinnati suspension bridge. His last enterprise was the Brooklyn bridge. The designs were completed, but the work had not begun on the bridge when Roebling died from an injury. His son, Washington Roebling, carried on the work.

SYPHILIS IN SECOND GENERATION

So far as I can learn there is no scientific evidence that the disease syphilis is or can be transmitted to the third generation. In fact, it is now pretty well known that this disease is not hereditary. It is, however, sometimes congenital—that is, present at birth. The germ of the disease must pass from parent to child; only when that occurs can the child be born with the disease. It is true that the disease in the newborn child may escape recognition. But it is present, if the child ever manifests any evidence, even years after birth. In other words, a vague taint or constitutional tendency which shows itself only after many years. The child has syphilis at the time of birth, or it has not.

Either parent or both may contribute the disease to offspring. Before the discovery of the germ of the disease and the Wassermann blood test, doctors, observing that in some cases the child had syphilis the mother seemed to be healthy, concluded that it was possible for the father to transmit the disease to the child while the mother escaped infection. The old time doctors even formulated a "law" which conferred a mysterious immunity upon the mother even though her suckling had syphilis. (This law bore the name of the doctor who conceived it; a psychologist may tell you why I can't remember the name of the man now.) The Wassermann reaction has proved that the mother of a syphilitic infant is herself syphilitic whether her syphilis be active or latent at the time the child is born.

Most of the popular notions about syphilis are wrong. To begin with, there's nothing I would rather eat than a meal cooked up just right, that's a fact. "There's nothing like a fish fry," shouters Clowney. "Gee it's good!" Then all was quiet for a while. The Travel Man said to smile to see them eat. Each Tiny-mite ate every bit he could.

That night was spent in slumber sound. Next morning they were running round and working up an appetite for breakfast, yet to come. The Travel Man soon called the bunch and said, "Say, lads, I have a hunch that now you'll all eat twice as much. That's where you're smart, not dumb."

When breakfast, very soon, was over they started on a hike once more. The Travel Man said, "We will go out to one of the lakes. It isn't very far from here. In fact, by auto, it is near. We'll jump into a cab for fun, and see how long it takes."

Ten minutes later they were there. "Oh, my," cried one, "What wondrous air. And, look, a man is diving from that great big towering stand. Let's stay right here and watch him go. I'll bet it will be quite a show. He won't splash much water if he knows just how to land."

The man then sailed out through the air. His diving form was really rare. "Oh, what a beauty," Carpy cried. "And what fine strokes he takes." The Travel Man then told them all that, from the spring time till the fall, the Finlanders all loved to swim. The land was full of lakes.

"Gee it's good!" Then all was quiet for a while. The Travel Man said to smile to see them eat. Each Tiny-mite ate every bit he could.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK
New York—Party girls, familiar movie symbols of Manhattan's merry-merry whirl, are indeed a peculiar product of life in this city of all kinds of people.

However much the setting of their superficial evenings may be exaggerated for the sake of imagined romance, no gliding could make the leasured lilies truer to the pictured type.

This was made evident to your reporter by a little incident in a Broadway movie theater.

An ordinary program film was being reeled off to an apathetic audience. At the big shot—showing one of those hey-hey penthouse parties—a girl in the row just ahead startled her neighbors with a fit of hysterical laughter that shook into sobe.

PARTY GIRL

It was only a few nights later that, as luck would have it, we happened upon the same girl at a large party.

We were introduced and, at mention of her extraordinary behavior in the theater, she explained that she had gone to the movie as a relaxation from too many such scenes and the sight of another on the screen had been too much.

Subsequently, it developed that these playmates of the idle rich are a frank lot. A little questioning brought out the following:

The big spenders accumulate a bookful of telephone numbers of such pleasant guests. Since beauty is a principal requisite, many of them are Fifth avenue fashion models and girls who pose for advertisements.

Usually two of them share an apartment and frequently a joint wardrobe. The boy friends buy dinners and suppers, which helps a lot. Most of them have a little money they can put out on the stock market or the races, through brokers or bookmakers who are such good acquaintances that they play only sure tips.

The girls have only to be good company in a big crowd. Sentimental attachments are rarely involved and the first invitation for the evening is always accepted. Then if the next one promises more fun, the first is canceled.

KNOW ALL THE ANSWERS

Not only dancing parties at the tony restaurant, but private affairs in the fashionable apartments on the upper east side, whether impromptu or formal, usually include a few of these girls. For that reason, most of them live in the side streets convenient to Park avenue.

They see all the hit shows while the speculators are charging extra tariff on the tickets. Knowing more of the town's gossip than Mrs. Grundy, they read only the more sentimental newspaper stories and the pictorial.

They have just one hate, the word "pal." That's because it is what they hear the oftenest.

FIVE WISCONSIN CITIES INCLUDED IN BUILDING BILL

Deficiency Appropriation Measure Reported for Post Office Consideration

BY RUBY A. BLACK (Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington — Appropriations to start work on five public buildings in Wisconsin are provided in the deficiency appropriation bill reported to the house of representatives Wednesday by the Appropriations committee.

The Wisconsin projects are: Beloit, $270,000; South Milwaukee, $120,000; Two Rivers, $130,000; Wisconsin Rapids, $125,000; The Beloit project calls for the acquisition of additional land and the extension and remodeling of the present post office, at a cost of $270,000, or $40,000 more than was originally estimated.

The original estimate for the purchase of land and the construction of a post office at South Milwaukee was $100,000, the bill increasing it to $120,000.

At Two Rivers, also, the original estimate for the site and building was only $100,000, the appropriation being an increase of $30,000.

The original estimate for the Wisconsin Rapids post office including the site, was $100,000, and $25,000 has been added.

The Beloit extension is to consist of a basement and two stories, stone faced and of fireproof construction, with a ground area of 7,560 square

SCHOOL NURSES BUSY WITH MEASLES, MUMPS

With its measles and mumps, May proved to be a busy month for the school nurses. Measles required 51 home visits, mumps 43, colds 25, and chicken pox 12. Visits were also made for whooping cough, pneumonia, skin conditions, and other diseases. Three hundred and nine homes and 268 patients were visited.

The number of pupils given partial inspection was 141, 67 were given first aid, 24 temperatures were taken, five pupils were excluded from school. Over 200 visits were made at 15 schools. The nurses accompanied six patients to doctors, made 430 telephone calls, and corrected seven defects in hearing and skin conditions.

feet. It will provide space for the post office, the civil service, the Internal Revenue bureau, and the war department.

The Two Rivers building will be a basement and one story, brick-faced stone trim, fireproof, providing 5,800 square feet of space for the post office, the Internal Revenue bureau, and the civil service. The postal receipts for 1929 at Two Rivers were 135 per cent greater than in 1919, amounting to $55,992 last year.

The Wisconsin Rapids structure will be similar to the Two Rivers building, 5,250 square feet of floor space for the federal activities. Postal receipts there last year amounted to $47,727.

The bill also provides an appropriation of $2,500 for extension of the look-out system in the Janesville post office and an appropriation of $60,000 to meet deficiencies in operating expenses for the Western Branch of the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers at Milwaukee.

Talkies Move To Farm In Big Plantation Theatre

Thomasville, Ga. — (AP) — "Forty acres and a mule" has been amended to take in the latest talkies on one of Dixie's model plantations.

It is owned by Howard M. Hanna of Cleveland, nephew of the late Mark Hanna.

A $20,000 theatre for employees, with two complete sound reproduction systems which cost an additional $20,000, gives the finishing touch to what has been called the south's finest representation of plantation life of the old days, embellished with modern improvements.

Up to date schools, churches, playgrounds and model homes preceded the talkies.

The theatre is called "The Showboat" after the musical show, and

Mr. Hanna followed the boat idea in its construction. Built of cypress and pine and fronting on a road near the "big house," the entrance is the familiar gangplank spanning a pool. Outside, there is a "deck" outside and a balcony inside. The interior is finished in "pecked" cypress, so-called because of numerous small indentations. Special architects arranged the acoustical plans.

Although the theatre is used frequently by Mr. and Mrs. Hanna and their children and friends, it is primarily a center for the several hundred employees, including many negro tenant families.

The plantation residents are given an excellent assortment of pictures once or more a week. Subjects of educational value are featured along with those providing pure entertainment.

The theatre frequently draws the socially prominent of the Thomasville winter colony to witness outstanding pictures before they appear in many of the larger cities.

The estate is one of several owned by members of the Hanna family near Thomasville, each of the plantations stretching 5,000 acres or more. Each is known as a model.

Interesting Menus

BY SISTER MARY

Probably the most appropriate and popular dessert for summer is a frozen dish of some sort. Of all the frozen dishes for summer menus a fruit ice is without question the most refreshing and cooling. An ice cream rich with cream, eggs, nuts and chocolate furnishes much food value and many calories that will produce heat, so while it may be cold to eat, it has no cooling effect on the body.

RASPBERRY ICE

One quart raspberries (red or black) 2 lemons, 2 cups sugar, 4 cups water, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine.

Pick over and wash berries. Drain juice and from lemons and squeeze juice from lemons. Add grated lemon and to sugar and water and bring to the boiling point. Stir in gelatine which has been softened in cold water and remove from fire. Pour over berries and let stand until cool. Add lemon juice and rub through any fine wire sieve. Turn into freezer and pack in four parts ice to one part salt and let stand two hours or longer.

MELON SHERBET

Two cups melon pulp, 13 cups water, 1 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1 egg white.

Soften gelatine in 4 tablespoons cold water. Bring sugar and water to the boiling point and add to gelatine. Stir until dissolved. Let cool slightly and add melon pulp. When cold, add lemon juice. Beat white of egg until stiff and dry with salt. Fold in powdered sugar and add to melon mixture. Turn into freezer and freeze as in preceding recipe.

The Story of Sue

by MARGERY HALE

© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

SUE prepared for bed very quietly. She did not want to waken her mother. She was afraid that if she did she would tell her about Corinne, and she didn't feel equal to that. In the morning, with the yellow sunshine playing across the cups and saucers with their gay orange design and the canary singing a matin in the window, it would be easier.

But Mrs. Merryman heard Sue and came into her room, to ask about the events of the evening.

"Corinne," she announced calmly, "is spending the night with June Walton."

It was snowing now. Through the window, where the street light sparkled like a dimmed balloon, Sue could see flecks drifting slowly. Winter was coming. Corinne was gone. She shivered. But she had to tell her mother.

Mrs. Merryman was surprised but she wasn't startled.

"Are you sure it's all right with you, Sue?" she asked.

"Then everything's all right," "Then everything's all right," she concluded philosophically. "Corinne will be better off married to Harry than flying around the country with Bob and her high school crowd. Some girls know their hearts early, and she's one of them."

"She wasn't old enough," Sue insisted. She felt that somebody had to offer objections to the union. If her mother wouldn't she would. "She had to lie about her license, I suppose."

"We'll give our approval," Mrs. Merryman answered. "Don't worry about it. I'm glad that Corinne is taken care of, I guess."

But Sue, not being able to sleep, got up after while and roamed into the hall. She stopped, startled. Her mother was sitting on the cushioned street very quietly, just staring into the night. Sue crept up to her and slipped her arm through her mother's. Mrs. Merryman pressed her hand tightly.

"Mothers are foolish persons."

Flapper Fanny Says:

All that some people realize on an investment — what fools they've been.

She tried to laugh. "I'm weighing the pros and cons of the marriage. I'm afraid..." She hesitated. "I'm scared for fear Corinne imagined herself in love with Harry because of the things he could give her, and didn't know it. And if she did, it's because her father and I failed in giving her the things that parents owe their children. And I'm hurt because she didn't confide in me..." Oh, I pretended I wasn't but I am. And she was too young! And... Mrs. Merryman's defenses were down. Sue knew now that she had been playing a game, that was all, when she had been so calm.

Then Mrs. Merryman choked down a sob and spoke again. "If she had married anyone but Harry I couldn't stand it, but he's true blue and sincere and established. Now if it had been just a high school elopement..."

Mr. Merryman, hearing voices, joined the group. But his reaction was different than his wife's and daughter's. He chuckled, after the first surprised start.

And Ted woke up and came out, too. He merely whistled, a long,

MISSION GROUP HONORS COUPLE AT RECEPTION

Between 100 and 125 people attended the meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of First Methodist church and reception in honor of Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Marsh, pastor and daughter, Tuesday afternoon at the church. Dr. Marsh is a former pastor of the church and is, with his wife and daughter, spending a short time visiting in Appleton.

Dr. Richard Evans gave a talk on Christianization of the United States so as to effect the Christianization of the Whole World. Dr. Marsh spoke briefly of his memories of Appleton during the time he spent here.

Following the meeting, a social hour took place and at 6 o'clock the missionary tea was served. The Foreign society held a short business session.

WEEK'S QUOTA FILLED AT GIRL SCOUTS CAMP

The quota for the first week at the Girl Scout camp at Onaway Island, Waupaca, has already been filled, according to a report by Miss Marjorie Kranhold, director of the camp. There is still room for a few reservations for the second week, however, and those wishing to attend must put their names in immediately. The camp opens June 26, and will be in session for two weeks.

low exclamation, and went back to bed. But under all the reactions Sue caught the hurt because Corinne, the adored of the family, had cut them off in this supreme moment. And Harry... suddenly she wondered if the emerald was still in her pocketbook.

PRESS DECLARES WAR ON BRUTAL KILLERS OF ALFRED LINGLE

Gangland Has Gone Too Far
—It Has Struck Power
Which Will Ruin It

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Copyright, 1936, By Cons. Press

Chicago—(CPA)—This town gave evidence today that it may really be angered about the ineffective conversations war its police department and prosecutors have waged unem-tlingly for six years against gangs who use the city's streets for their human butcher shop.

When a brazen hoodlum dictator ordered Alfred Lingle, police reporter for the Chicago Tribune, slain, the underworld struck at a power which may prove its undoing. The newspapers today uniformly accepted the challenge and evidenced were that the city was back of them. Police for the first time in years had done little talking.

"There have been eleven gang murders in ten days," said the Tribune editorial today. "That has become the accepted course of crime in its natural stride, but to the list of Col-osimo, O'Banion, the Gennas, Murphy, Wells, Lombardo, Esposito, the seven who were killed in the St. Valentine's Day massacre and all the other victims of assassination the name is added of a man whose business was to expose the work of the killers.

ACCEPTS CHALLENGE

"The Tribune accepts this chalenge. It is war. There will be casualties, but that is to be expected, it being war. The Tribune has the support of all the other Chicago newspapers.

"The challenge of crime to the community must be accepted. It has been given with bravado. It is accepted and we'll see what the consequences are to be. Justice will make a fight or it will abdicate."

To make the gesture more significant, three local newspapers have offered rewards totalling $55,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killers of Lingle.

Said the Chicago Herald and Examiner, indicative of the public feeling.

"The coalition of crime and politics in Chicago has been obviously growing more powerful for months.

"No ordinary man is certain what force rules the police.

"Every citizen suspects that the rotten influence of the underworld reaches even into the courts.

"Chicago must wake up. It must clear from its eyes the dimness of self-deception and see itself as others

see it."

SCENT WAS DROPPED

It is like the case of William

McSwiggan, assistant state's attorney, who was shot down by machine guns four years ago, the answer may be "nothing." That time the trail ran too high into gangland

and into officialdom and the scent was quickly dropped.

Carey Orr indicates the difficulties

blocking the road of those who would battle the underworld. In another Tribune cartoon today he pictures "crimes defenses." Money bags, graft, make up the first line of defense. Behind this fort of filthy lucres, stand the gunmen as the second line of defense ready and willing to deal out wholesale murder. Back of them is a book "A threat to expose the names of public officials who protect crime. To be used only as a last resort. "The third line of defense." And the criminal behind this protection says: "This last is my greatest defense."

That threat has only been used once. Then it saved the lives of two Capone gunmen who had killed two Chicago policemen and wounded

two more.

Capone attorneys threatened to publish their payroll of police officers and the prosecution almost crumpled.

In the present instance, to show its attitude, the Capone organization has agreed to surrender three of its gunmen who have some characteristics of the man who killed Lingle.

CURATIVE WORKSHOP SPONSORED BY WOMEN

Chicago—(CP)—A curative occupational workshop as a demonstration clinic for medical students and physicians will be established at the medical college of Northwestern university soon by the Chicago Woman's club.

The workshop will be the first in the United States to be established in a medical school dispensary for teaching physicians and medical students.

The supposition is that enemies of the Capone gang did the job.

In a front page editorial today, dealing with the situation, the Chicago Daily News said in part:

"The city of Chicago is the victim of a vicious administrative system which appears to be controlled by ulterior forces and which seems to be well fortified by the indifference,

the coalition or the limitation of more than a few of those who are in authority. That system must go."

"Commissioner Russell, chief of the police department, and Deputy Commissioner Stege, in charge of the detective bureau, have had their opportunity to break up the criminal gangs that infest the city and make the streets hideous with bleeding corpses. They have failed for whatever cause. If they cannot begin now, today, to cope successfully with the shameful situation by intelligent and energetic action they ought to go."

OLD DOCTOR'S IDEA

IS BIG HELP TO

ELDERLY PEOPLE

In 1885, old Dr. Caldwell made a discovery for which elderly people the world over praise him today!

Years of practice convinced him that many people were endangering their health by a careless choice of laxatives. So he began a search for a harmless prescription which would be thoroughly effective, yet would neither gripe nor form any habit.

At last he found it.

Over and over he wrote it, when he found people bilious, headachy, out of sorts, weak or feverish; with coated tongue, bad breath, no appetite or energy. It relieved the most obstinate cases, and yet was gentle with women, children and elderly people.

Today the same famous, effective prescription, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is the world's most popular laxative. It may be obtained from any drugstore. adv.

LEGGE STATUS IN DOUBT AFTER YEAR AS BOARD'S CHIEF

Friends and Foes Wonder How Much Longer He'll Stay at His Post

Washington—(P)—Friends and foes of the man who has been called

"agriculture's Abraham Lincoln" and "the leader of a Socialistic fiasco" were wondering today how much longer he would remain at the head of the government's $500,000-

000 enterprise in merchandising farm products.

Chairman Alexander H. Legge of the Federal Farm board, who has clashed frequently and fiercely with President Hoover's intimate friend and advisor, Julius Barnes, over the board's operations in grain, will complete a year of service with the agency at midnight Saturday.

While the census here is that

Legge will serve another year,

neither the president nor the chairman himself has given any official indication of what may be expected.

On that subject, Legge is smilingly uncommunicative.

OVER-BOSS PROTESTS

When the board launched its wheat stabilization operations financed by loans from the half billion dollar revolving fund authorized by congress, it provoked vehement protest from grain dealers who wired

President Hoover that their business would be destroyed. The board continued its operations, however, and now is preparing to assist a similar stabilization corporation to relieve the cotton emergency.

The chamber of commerce at its annual meeting in April condemned the board's policy by using public fund to participate in business competition with established agencies.

Then, facing his fellow-members of the chamber, Legge dramatically denounced their attitude of hostility to the board, declaring they were for farm relief "so long as it didn't work."

But Barnes, who is chairman of the chamber's board of directors and head of President Hoover's national business advisory council, insisted government financing of large grain operations was an economic fallacy and if continued would prove dangerous.

Both Legge and Barnes are said to have the confidence and support of the chief executive in their respective activities. They are at loggerheads, however, on the questions of using public funds to finance cooperative marketing operations.

WORK COMPLETED ON FORMAL GARDEN IN MENASHA PARK

Area of Approximately 62,500 Square Feet Is Beautified

Menasha—The formal garden, constructed on the north end of the Menasha city park, was completed Wednesday night. The garden covers an area of approximately 62,500 square feet and contains eight beds. Built along the square cornered, diagonal lines of the Memorial building.

Work on the garden has been underway for several weeks under the direction of Vernon Gruper, park superintendent. Throughout the work, Gruper followed a plan drawn by H. Bucholz, landscape artist.

When all flowers are in bloom, the garden will contain a dozen different varieties. There will be canines in variety, salvia, african daisy, dahlia, flowered zinnias, ageratum and lobelia. Snap dragons also have been planted, with french marigold, cosmos, dusty millers and aster plants.

The completion of the formal garden marks the pinnacle of several years work on the city park and on the water front site, park authorities stated. In the immediate future, the activities of the city park board will be confined more to upkeep and improvement of present facilities, than to the development of new recreation centers.

MOVE PLAY EQUIPMENT TO ANOTHER GROUNDS

Menasha—Playground equipment, previously located in the First ward park, has been moved to the Second ward playground. The reason given for the move was the change in the use of the equipment in the Second ward playground. Baseball is more popular than First ward patrons during the summer and the lack of equipment will not be a problem.

Gozac carried the hurling burden for the losers, with Keefe working behind the plate.

FALCON NINE PREPARES FOR WRIGHTSTOWN GAME

Menasha—The Menasha Polish Falcons baseball team will play at home Sunday against the strong Wrightstown nine. The weekend games in the Little Fox league will break the four way tie for second place which has existed since Sunday. Appleton is in first place with no losses and Neenah holds the cellar position with six defeats.

Strength has been added to the Falcon's defense in the acquisition of Floyd Kaminski, infielder. Kaminski has played on several valley teams and has had some experience in faster competition. He will play either second or third base.

The Falcons are holding several stiff practice sessions this week to patch up the weaknesses made apparent when Appleton romped on the local team 12 to 0 last Sunday.

PRACTICE PLANNED BY TWIN CITIES NINE

Menasha—The Neenah-Menasha Pails were to hold their second practice session this week Thursday afternoon in Recreational park. With their game with Kaukauna rained out last week, the Pails are working hard for their battle with Appleton Sunday.

A change of venue to circuit court was obtained. Malaut's attorney also made a plea for a reduction in the bond or for the acceptance of a bond which the court had previously deemed not sufficient security, but the judge pointed out he had already reduced the amount from $500 to $200 and refused the request. It was stated that Malaut had five children and could obtain work if released from jail. Judge Goss declared if the security mentioned is good, the man should be able to obtain the cash to guarantee his appearance in circuit court in September.

NEENAH MASONS TO OBSERVE FOUNDING DATE NEXT MONDAY

Herbert N. Lafflin, Milwaukee, Grand Master, Will Be Speaker

Neenah—Herbert N. Lafflin, Milwaukee, Grand Master of Wisconsin Masons, will be the principal speaker Monday night when the Neenah Kane Chapter will observe its seventy-fifth anniversary at Masonic temple. Arrangements have been completed for the event, which will open at 2 o'clock in the afternoon with a reception for members and visiting Masons. The reception will continue until 6 o'clock. At 6:30 a dinner will be served.

There will be no talks during the dinner, but immediately after a program in charge of Alvin Stalfeld will be presented. This will consist of short talks by members and music by the Aerial orchestra, which also will furnish music during the dinner hour. One of the talks will be given by Dr. Orrin Thompson, historian, who will review the early days of Masonry in the state and in Neenah.

The first lodge of Masons in the state was organized June 15, 1835, and was made up of members of both Neenah and Menasha. As the cities grew in number, it was decided to separate and locate a lodge at each place. In 1857 the lodge was changed in name from Lodge No. 61, to Kane Lodge No. 61, the lodge on the Neenah side keeping the old number.

The first election and installation of officers under this new dispensation occurred on Jan. 14, 1858. The first officers were Aaron H. Cronk, Worshipful master; A. Bidwell, senior warden, Ira A. Torrey, junior warden; D. K. Pangborn, treasurer; Clitz Perry, secretary; H. Woolledge, senior deacon, and L. H. Brown, junior deacon. Henry S. Daird, grand master of the state of Wisconsin, was the presiding officer on this occasion.

The lodge met for many years over the store on W. Wisconsin-ave. owned by Henry Wildfang. Later it met in the rooms over the Leavenworth store and in 1875 it took possession of Peabody hall. The lodge at that time numbered 65 members. Later the lodge met in the rooms on the second story of the Sherry building, now known as the Winnebago block, where it remained until a few years ago when it moved to its new temple on E. Wisconsin-ave.

While there are now none of the charter members, there are four men, Harvey and David Young, George A. Whiting and F. J. Ladd, who have been members for 50 years and over and who will be present at the Monday celebration.

He was lodged in the Winnebago-co jail to await his hearing.

Anderson was arrested following the burglary of the Twin City School Supply company office a few weeks ago. The safe in the office was broken open and a sum of money was stolen. He has served three years for breaking into the Standard Oil company office on High-st, according to police.

Bergrum Papers defeated Drahelm Sports 19 and 3, and the Kimberly-Clark team defeated the Telephone-Power team 11 and 5.

Another set of games will be played Thursday evening, the schedule bringing together Drahelm Sports and Telephone-Power team at Doty park Jerrold Clothes and Kimberly-Clark, and Grocers and Bergrum Papers at Columbian park diamonds.

DON'T BLAME YOUTH FOR RECKLESSNESS, SENIORS ARE TOLD

People Who Furnish Attractions at Fault, Says Dean Graham

Neenah—American Character in the Present Emergency, was the subject of the address given Wednesday evening by Dean J. Clarke Graham of Ripon College to the Neenah American graduating class at the Senior high school.

He claimed it has been predicted that the United States might drop to a third or fourth position in the world, and asked what the situation in America would be in view of such a possibility.

"Europe is afraid of America, afraid of American character, claiming the American man is a fool about money, a fool about technique and that the American man is herd minded," he said. They note our progress, our rapidly moving wheels, and our progress, and are worried."

He spoke on modern youth, which he charged have lost respect for law, and is lazy.

"It is not the boy or girl who is to blame," he said. "The blame must be laid on those who furnish this excitement, those who offer tempting places such as roadhouses, and those who make liquor and cigarettes."

He referred to the days of our grandfather, who came home after work, ate supper, and went to bed by 9 o'clock.

"He had no radio, no motion picture theatre, no automobile to take his attention during the evening hours," he said. "What change has come over the youth of today. Mother comes over the afternoon at a bridge party, comes home in a hurry and gets ready for a luncheon and after that looks for the best picture show or a ball or some other thing to keep her from her home. Father is busy at his office but is ready for a club dinner, an auto ride, a prize fight or some other excitement which keeps him rushed at all times."

"That a difference has been made in almost a century by machinery. We are all lovers of luxury. We are progress mad and we are too interested in our specialty and forget to be good citizens. If you live in America, love your home."

SCHOOL ORCHESTRA PLAYS

The program started at 8 o'clock with a selection by the high school orchestra under direction of Oscar Hoh. This was followed by the March of the 102 class members to the stage, which was decorated with huge flowers and flooded with lights. Above the stage was the class motto "To Be Rather Than to Seem." Following the invocation by the Rev. A. Gordon Fowkes, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal church, Miss Viola Hellermann gave the salutatory address. Miss Hellermann was followed by Dean Graham, Miss Meta Selaft, valedictorian, spoke on How Should We Spend Our Leisure Time?

"Will this class be an asset or a liability to the community?" she asked. "That all depends upon what is accomplished during the leisure hours."

Following another selection by the orchestra and the singing of the class song, Principal J. R. Ballentin, presented the diplomas.

This was the largest class to graduate from Neenah Senior high school and the first program of this kind to take place in the new senior school building.

The next number on the commencement week program will be given Friday evening at the Valley Inn when the Alumni association will hold its annual banquet and reception for the class of 1930. Kevill Larson, former high school student and later a student at Oxford university, England, will be the speaker. Edmund Lachman will be toastmaster. President James Keating will give the welcoming speech to the class, and Alfred Falkenkrug, president of the class will respond. Dancing and election of officers will complete the evening's entertainment.

REMEMBER FIREWORKS LAWS, POLICE WARN

Neenah—People disobeying state laws regulating the display and sale of fireworks before July 1 will be arrested, according to police. Fireworks are being discharged about the city, police report. Mayor George E. Sande will issue instructions to the police to arrest those not abiding by the laws. Most of the merchants have received their supply of fireworks. A change in the state laws makes the legal length of firecrackers two inches instead of three. Drastic changes in displaying and storing fireworks are included in the new laws. At no time can torpedoes or toy pistols and caps be sold. A heavy penalty is imposed for sale of these articles. State fireworks inspectors are expected here within the next few days to check up on merchants offering fireworks for sale.

After Many Failures He Discovered A Real Pile Remedy

For years he suffered with itching piles. Now and then he'd get a little relief from some salve or ointment—but nothing much to speak of. Finally someone told him of Peterson's Ointment—of its powerful healing qualities which had brought such swift, blessed relief to thousands of pile sufferers. Somewhat doubtful, he bought a box—the first application absolutely convinced him that this was the most marvelous Ointment in the world. Why, man alive! That agonizing soreness went right out of those piles—the tortuous itching stopped—before he knew it his piles were gone. Every enterprising druggist in America knows of the mighty healing power of Peterson's Ointment—he knows it ends piles—cure 99% of them.

Hunt for Chicago Killer

With a reward of $55,000 offered by Chicago newspapers and other agencies, the greatest man-hunt in Chicago's history is under way for gangsters who murdered Alfred Lingke, reporter for the Chicago Tribune, who was shot down because he knew too much about gangland activities. Above, Pat Roche, chief investigator for the state's attorney, examines the left-handed milk glove discarded by the murderer—one of the chief tangible clues in the slaying. Police have been questioning Sam Hunt (shown in the inset), alleged Capone gunman, in connection with the murder.

TAX SALE LARGEST IN HISTORY OF COUNTY

Neenah—The largest tax sale in the history of Winnebago-co was held Tuesday at the office of Earl Fuller, county treasurer, when 1,325 descriptions of property were acquired by the county because of delinquent taxes. The value of the property represented was $53,614.15, which includes the interest added to the original amount of the taxes. The tax sale last year was the largest up to that time. There were 1,090 descriptions included in the sale in 1929. Be Elevated to Position at Toronto

Toronto—A man who quit school at 13 to buck the world for a living and prospered to such an extent that he was able to retire at the age of 48 is the new head of the Shriners in the United States and Canada, numbering more than half a million.

Esten Asprey Fletcher is his name and, although a Canadian by birth, he has made his home for many years in Rochester, N. Y. At the 1930 convocation of the Ancient Arabic Order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine in Toronto, June 10-12, he is to be advanced to imperial potentate, succeeding Leo V. Youngworth of Los Angeles.

And Toronto, getting ready for the first great Shrine convention ever held in Canada, is preparing to play host to 200,000 visitors—Shriners and members of their families. There will be three great days of merry-making, parading and band playing.

Every downtown and uptown hotel has been booked solid. One hotel, the Royal York—the largest in the British Empire—has been bought for every service it can give for a whole week.

But that is only a starter. A 500-acre park, used annually for the Canadian National Exposition, has been turned over to the Shriners. Eight large exhibition halls will house the uniformed units, the bands and the various animals. A special grandstand for $0,000 has been built in the park, in addition to the permanent grandstand seating 17,000.

The Canadian National and the Canadian Pacific railroads have each laid, within walking distance of the parks, tracks for two Pullman cars. Eight hundred sleeping cars will be parked in these, housing 20,000 Shriners. Each of these Pullman "cities" will have its own paved sidewalks between the cars, its restaurants, bathhouses, barber shops, telegraph offices and the like.

Ten Great Lakes steamships, bringing Shriners and their families from lake cities, will tie up at the downtown docks. Private homes, fraternity houses, college residences and numerous institutions have been passed by committees for their spare rooms.

SKETCH OF NEW POTENTATE
Fletcher, the new imperial potentate, is a man to whom nothing appeals so much as Masonry. It has been his hobby from the time of his induction in 1903 and since his retirement from business in 1917 he has made it his life's work.

Born the son of a lumberman in Ivy, Ontario, on July 23, 1889, young Fletcher completed his education before his 13th birthday and entered the business of his father, taking planks from planers in the latter's mill. A hard worker, he advanced in the industry and, desiring to be on his own, went to Rochester in 1900 and set up a business.

Successful from the start, he retired at 48 to devote his time to eternal and civic projects. He had been president of the New York State Lumber Dealers' Association, trustee of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce and is now a bank director. In 1917-18 he served on the War Industries Board.

His Masonic record began in 1902 when he received his degree in Corinthian Temple Lodge No. 805. He assisted in forming Zetland Lodge No. 951 and became its first master. He served the grand lodge as senior grand deacon from 1925 to 1927. He was exalted to the royal arch in Ionia Chapter No. 210 in 1906 and in the same year became a member of Cyrene Commandery No. 39, later receiving the Order of the Temple.

The work in this branch of the order appealed to him and he accepted office, advancing regularly to Eminent Commander in 1912. In the Cryptic Rite he was received in Doric Council No. 10 on March 28, 1916. In the Scottish Rite he received his degree in 1903, being created a S. P. R. S. in November, 1903.

He immediately took an active work in the consistory and for a quarter of a century has been one of the moving spirits. He served as sovereign prince of Rochester Council of Princes of Jerusalem in 1909 and as commander-in-chief of Rochester Consistory from 1914 to 1920.

RECEIVES 33D DEGREE
In recognition of his services, he was crowned a sovereign grand inspector general, 33rd degree, in Philadelphia, Sept. 16, 1913. He became a member of Damascus Temple, Rochester, on Dec. 2, 1903, and served as potentate in 1911. Last year he was advanced to deputy imperial potentate. He is also a member of the Red Cross of Constantine and Lalla Rookh Grotto and the Royal Order of Scotland. He is at present a trustee of Zetland Lodge, Cyrene Commandery and Rochester Consistory.

The Shrine is familiarly known as "the playground of Masonry," although it is noted for its charitable and benevolent work, especially its hospital for crippled children.

FOUNDED IN 1876
Its 50-year history is one of the most picturesque in the annals of American fraternalism. In 1876, Billy Florence, an actor, and several friends formed the first temple, in New York City. They called it Moccasin and gave the order the dress and forms of the Arabian because these appealed to the theatrical and colorful ideas of the founders.

General Lew Wallace, author of Ben Hur, was one of these. He contributed much of the oriental atmosphere to the order, with its red fez, chandlers and brilliant costumes. More temples followed and in 1878 the fraternity was placed on a national basis by the organization of an imperial council, composed of four representatives of each temple. There are now more than 150 temples in North America, with membership varying from 2000 to 22,000 and total membership of more than a half million.

Only a 32nd degree Scottish Rite Mason or a Knight Templar in the York Rite is eligible for admission to the Shrine, so therefore every member is a Mason.

COMMISSION PUTS SILENCER ON FIVE PIONEER STATIONS

Charge Railroad Radio Is Being Used Only for Private Purposes

BY ROBERT MACK
(Copyright by the Cons. Press)
Washington —(AP)—Five of the pioneer radio communications stations in the United States are ordered to perpetual silence by the Federal Radio Commission, because they do not measure up to "public utility" requirements laid down by that body.

These stations, owned by the Ann Arbor and Pere Marquette Railway companies, have been employed in general traffic dispatching and communication on Lake Michigan for more than a decade—or before the advent of short waves. They have been operating on the long waves, at the bottom of the radio spectrum, or the portion which first was found adapted for communication without wires.

CONTRARY TO LAW
The commission has determined that the railroad companies are using these stations for "private" communication rather than for service to the general public. Following the legal concept so often enunciated by Commissioner Ira E. Robinson, that body determined that it is contrary to the public interest to permit radio facilities, all too scarce, to be used by private interests in their own business pursuits.

The fact that these five stations—which have had at their disposal eight frequencies on which they contacted with ships on Lake Michigan, and point to point between the stations—have been operating for so long a time, did not deter the commission's public utility policy, according to Commissioner Robinson, precludes the licensing of other than companies engaged in the handling of traffic for the general public, just as the railways themselves.

VERIFY REPORTS
At a hearing last month, counsel for the railroads declared they were perfectly willing to accept public traffic and had done so in the past. But the commission concluded that the great bulk of the traffic has been and necessarily must be the "private communications" of the railroads themselves. The stations are operated on an interlocking basis by the two railroads. Since the stations are located at key freight points around Lake Michigan, and very little passenger business is handled, there is consequently no demand for handling of public radio message.

The commission also holds, it is understood, that the service can be maintained largely by land-line between the five points at which stations now are located. The ship to shore communication, however, between land stations and the "car ferries" of the railroads which, on a round-trip schedule haul railroad freight cars across Lake Michigan, obviously cannot be handled by wire.

MAY MAKE APPEAL
It is expected that the two railroads will immediately appeal to the court of appeals here from the commission's adverse decision. Since the court is in recess over the summer, an application for a stay order probably will be filed seeking to have the commission restrained from cancelling the station licenses until the court has had occasion to act on the appeal. A stay order requires the signature of only one of the three justices sitting on the court.

Stations of the Ann Arbor company are maintained by Frankfort, Manistique and Menominee, Michigan, and Manitowish, Wis. The Pere Marquette station is at Ludington, Mich.

New York—Abraham Cohen Bronx candy merchant, is a brave man. A Negro pointed a pistol at him, seized $1 from the till and ran. Abraham pursued half a mile and got the dollar back. He did not know till the police came that the Negro's pistol was a toy affair filled with cigarettes.

Is your "permanent" an economy?

Many girls find that a permanent costs more in the long run than having their hair marcelled. It should be an important saving instead. One of the big advantages of a permanent is the convenience of looking attractive under all conditions. In order to have a smart, neat wave on 5 minutes' notice you must set it yourself. Set it with Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. It's easy and you can do it daily better than anyone else who sets your hair once a week. Train your hair to such perfection that each hair is in place. Here is how:

After washing the hair (with hot water) dry the ends, leaving the top quite damp. Then apply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen liberally with the palm of your hand, or a brush. Comb it and set each wave by holding the hair in place with one finger while you shape the wave with the next finger and comb. When every wave is set, cover your hair with a square of chiffon or a chose fitting net cap.

Instead of using water on your hair, use Wave and Sheen each morning in setting the wave. Water dulls the hair. Wave and Sheen enhances the lustre. At all toilet counters adv.

SECOND FUND BILL SENT TO LOWER HOUSE

Calls for Direct Outlay of $66,211,884 and Indefinite Allotments

Washington—(P)—The second deficiency appropriation bill calling for a direct outlay of $66,211,884, and indefinite allotments in excess of $51,000,000 to cover contingencies in the operation of the various government departments and agencies was reported Wednesday to the house by its appropriations committee.

In addition to providing more than $25,000,000 for public building projects, the measure set aside $10,660,000 for initial work on the $165,000,000 Boulder Canyon dam project, and authorized the payment of $51,000,000 to settle German, Austrian and Hungarian war claims under the mixed claims commission. It increased the authorizations for a number of building projects and re-appointed numerous unexpended balances for various projects. Funds appropriated under the measure are to become available immediately upon enactment.

It sets aside $1,700,000 to begin work on a $3,350,000 penitentiary in the northeastern section; $1,000,000 for federal jails; $750,000 for prison camps; $500,000 for consolidated prison industries; $325,000 for initial work on a narcotic farm at Lexington, Ky., and $250,000 for the Hoover Law Enforcement commission to continue its inquiry into prohibition enforcement.

Among the usual items was $2,500 for a portrait painted by Baron Robert Doblhoff of Vienna, of Speaker Longworth to be placed in the speakers' lobby; $10,000 to the widow of the late Representative R. Q. Lee of Texas; a total of $4,000 to be paid to contestants in the election case of Representative Harry M. Wurzbach of Texas, against Augustus McCloskey of San Antonio; $1,433 for the expenses of William C. Lawson for his contest against Representative Ruth Ryan Owen of Florida, who is to receive $36.40 for her expenses, and $20,000 to the widow of the late Justice Edward T. Sanford of the supreme court.

The bill carries $40,000 for protecting the government's interests in naval petroleum reserves; $328,072 for the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration commission; $1,000,000 for the Porto Rican Hurricane Relief commission and $2,200,000 for the veterans bureau in addition to reappropriating unexpended balances for military and naval compensation.

In the allotments for the agriculture department, $1,000,000 was set aside for the extension service to encourage use of the federal farm board's facilities; $506,067 to the state of Georgia and $805,561 to the state of South Carolina to rebuild highways and bridges; $100,000 for cotton ginning investigations; $5,341 for the Upper Mississippi River Game refuge; $35,000 for Oregon caves in Siskiyou National forests, Oregon; $5,000,000 for forest roads and trails and $17,640 for enforcement of the grain futures act.

Under the commerce department $30,000 was allowed for the monitoring radio station at Grand Island, Neb.; $350,000 for a hydraulic laboratory; $120,000 for rebuilding Great Lakes lighthouses; $190,000 for the lighthouse service and $17,500 for a fish cultural station in Oklahoma.

FUNDS FOR PRISONS
The justice department was allowed $135,000 for additional salaries of judges; $129,940 for the penitentiary barracks taken over recently to relieve prison congestion; $40,000 for the penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga.; $80,177 for the reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio; $175,000 for the probation system and $65,000 for medical service in all five of the federal penitentiary institutions.

The immigration service was allowed $49,123 for improvements at Ellis Island, New York.

The navy department was allowed $5,560 for congressional medals for officers and men of the Byrd Antarctic expedition; $1,175,000 for the marine corps in connection with activities in Nicaragua, and $5,532 for expenses of the marine band to the Grand Army of the Republic encampment at Cincinnati, Ohio.

The sum of $1,000,000 was set aside for special delivery service under the postoffice department and contract air mail service drew $1,700,000.

Under the state department, $10,000 was allotted for a minister to the Union of South Africa; $30,000 for the International Boundary commission (United States-Mexico); $20,000 for the International Road Line conference at London; $25,800 for the Inter-American agriculture and animal industry conference; $25,000 for invitations to foreign governments to participate in the 10th Anniversary of Lord Cornwallis at Yorktown, Va., to be held in 1931.

The bill would grant authority to the secretary of the treasury to utilize the balance of $100,000,000 for the payment of claims of German nationals against the United States under the settlement of War Claims act. Previously $50,000,000 was appropriated. He also would be authorized to pay $1,000,000 to Austrian and Hungarian nationals and to pay claims for the ships Carl Dietrichsen and Johanne, $166,787 and $174,600, respectively, filed by German nationals as a result of seizure during the war.

The measure also carried a total of $773,520 for the National Home for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers of which the Central branch at Dayton, Ohio, received $6,000, the Northwestern branch at Milwaukee, Wis., $60,000, the Eastern branch at Togus, Maine, $25,000; the Southern branch at Hampton, Va., $51,000; the Western branch at Leavenworth, Kansas, $65,000, the Pacific branch at Santa Monica, Calif., $145,000, Marion Branch, Marion, Ind., $58,000; Danville Branch, Danville, Ill., $75,000; Mountain Branch, Benson City, Tenn., $53,000; Bath Branch, Bath, N. Y., $50,000 while clothing and equipment for all branches amounted to $82,520.

The NEW Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon

A really STUNNING TIRE you ought to see

It isn't enough to call the new Goodyear Heavy Duty Balloon an extra-mileage tire—it's an extra-style tire as well.

Once your car is shod with them, it takes on a new and smarter look; it stands proudly on a more solid and distinctive foundation.

In the first place this new Heavy Duty Balloon is bigger, handsomer, more massive; and around its sleek black side-walls runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

Then the outer rows of All-Weather blocks on both sides of the deep-cut extra-thick tread are prism down into the side-wall, a touch as arresting as anything in modern sculpture.

The essential merit of this tire of course is in its capacity for extra mileage—it is made stronger and tougher in every part to withstand hard, fast, rocky-road driving.

Before you buy your next tire be sure you see this stunning Goodyear Heavy Duty—you owe it to yourself not to overlook its remarkable advantages.

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than 1/4

of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

Talks To Parents

TOOLS

BY ALICE JUDSON PEALE
Every child, boy or girl, of four or more should have a work bench and a beginning of a good set of tools of his own.

A little help in learning the rudiments of their use so that he will not hurt himself, and there are open to him a thousand possibilities of things to make or do.

His first satisfaction very likely will be that simply of making a pile of sawdust fall beneath the rhythmic saw and driving of a large headed nail down flat into a block of wood.

Soon he will make crude ships and trains and even cruder furniture. As he gets older, he learns to make respectable chairs and tables, book shelves and boxes in which he may keep prized possessions.

He builds bird houses and perhaps an express wagon. The little girl whose mother is skillful with a needle is quite likely to appreciate at an early age a little work basket of her own nicely fitted with needle book, thimble, emery bag and a small sharp pair of shears.

Children who, early in life are given tools of their own learn not only a skill which is in itself an education, but have opened to them as well the joys of creation in a medium which they have learned to use.

It is this joy in creation which educators everywhere are doing their utmost to preserve and encourage in children.

It is recognized as one of the most precious qualities of a well-equipped and happy adult personality.

Heavyweight Contenders Await Clang Of First Gong

NEW YORK AGAIN "THE BIG TOWN" AS FIGHT FANS ARRIVE

Boxing, Experience Favor
Sharkey; Courage, Ambition
Help Max

BY ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, June 12.—(AP)—New York today with its rush and roar as the background for a world's heavyweight championship match between the youthful German from Hamburg and a Lithuanian-American from Boston.

Tonight, some 45 minutes from the heart of Broadway, Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling will swap punches for 15 rounds or less, seeking recognition as the heavyweight king and successor to the retired ruler, Gene Tunney.

At the ringside, perhaps, perhaps in evening clothes, Gentleman Gene was expected to see the new monarch of maul crowned.

With fair weather assured, close to 75,000 spectators figured to pay something like $750,000 in the interests of charity and for the privilege of seeing a fresh chapter unfolded in heavyweight history.

SCENES HAVE CHANGED
The scenes, the times and the gladiators in this fistie extravaganza represent a far cry from the June night at Coney Island, 31 years ago, when James J. Jeffries won the heavyweight title from freckled Bob Fitzsimmons before a crowd of 10,000.

On that memorable occasion, the chief of police was at the ringside to stop the mob "after the first hard blow" but he said everything was "all right" after Jeffries, then a 22-year-old kid, knocked out the veteran Fitzsimmons in the eleventh round.

Tonight's was the eight heavyweight championship affair brought to some corner of New York. It was the first, however, to involve two contenders for the title, vacated two years ago by Tunney. Its only parallel in ring history since John J. Sullivan's era was the fight in Sydney, Australia, in 1908, when Jack Johnson whipped Tommy Burns for the crown cast aside by Jeffries.

Sharkey ruled the favorite to beat back the challenge of his youthful German antagonist, keep the line of title succession in the United States and climax his own erratic fistie career with a victory. The ex-sailor furnished his two previous chances, in 1927 and 1928, to battle his way into the championship spotlight. Temperamental and uncertain though he has been, the majority of experts picked Sharkey to win. The gamblers, backed him at odds pruned from 2 to 1 down to 7 to 5.

SHARKEY HAS EXPERIENCE
Boxing skill and experience were on Sharkey's side, with a vicious punch to support them. Courage, ambition and an equally dangerous wallop were the main assets of Schmeling. Both possessed the stamina for a hard fight, if necessary, to the limit of 15 rounds, with a referee and two judges to cast the final verdict.

Youth and its compelling forces were on Schmeling's side. In that reveal of the situation, in the do-or-bust spirit of the under dog, many of the experts foresaw the German's best chance of triumph. Then envisioned Max in the same position as Dempsey at Toledo, as Tunney at Philadelphia, fighting against odds but also with an excellent fighting chance.

Moreover, Schmeling represents the new Germany. He is the first teuton to challenge for the heavyweight championship and typical of the youthful generation that has figured in Germany's athletic comeback, one of the most remarkable in history. They have labelled him the "German Dempsey," largely upon a physical resemblance.

Fight fans to whom a heavyweight title affairs is a ritual not to be missed, have flocked to New York from all parts of the land as well as from overseas.

The eye-witnesses were numbered in thousands but the "ear-witnesses" figured to run well up into the millions, with a national network broadcasting the blow-by-blow details from the ringside.

The fight preliminaries were billed to begin around 6 o'clock central standard time and the main bout at 8 o'clock.

What the Stars
Did Yesterday

Jonathan Stone, Tigers—Hit two doubles and a triple, drove in two runs and scored three as Tigers whipped Yankees.
Charley Root, Cubs—Stopped Phils with eight scattered hits and beat them 6-2.
Al Lopez, Robins—Pinch single with bases filled in ninth gave Robins 2-1 victory over Reds.
Earl Hubbell, Giants—Field 15-10 in check and beat them easily.
Garland Hartman, Senators—Hit home run, driving in three runs, to lead Senators to 3-1 victory over Yankees.

Gets Big Chance Tonight

MAX SCHMELING

Here's Max Schmeling, the first German born fighter ever to battle for the heavyweight championship of the world. He goes into the ring tonight shortly before 8 o'clock Appleton time, to battle Jack Sharkey, the Boston goliath, in a bout the winner of which will be recognized as the holder of the crown Gene Tunney laid aside after beating Dempsey in Chicago a few years ago. Sharkey is the general favorite to win.

Curve Ball Pitching On Increase In Majors

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS
Copyright 1930

CHICAGO—Curve ball pitching is increasing in the American league," declared Donnie Bush, manager of the Chicago White Sox. "I find more of it this season than when I left the league in 1923 but still less than in the National."

Good curve ball pitching partially would offset the lively tendencies of the present ball, in the opinion of the Chicago leader.

"Nine out of ten batters like to hit fast ball pitching better than curves. A batter may hit a curve ball just as hard as a fast one but the chances are he will not hit it so often. There is too little deception to so many of the speed deliveries found today and everyone is taking them for a ride. But speed is easier to supply and you find a lot of fellows with nothing else."

"Of course there are batters who can hit either speed or curves. The ones who hit .350 and better year after year are going to hit almost anything. But good curve pitching would slow up a lot of players who are murdering fast stuff."

Dush is having his troubles with the White Sox but he expected them and is not disappointed over the club's lowly position. Alphonse Thomas' sore and uncompromising arm has been a hard wall. Had Thomas been in condition and worked along with Ted Lyons the Sox might be close to the first division on pitching alone. Thomas' arm is an enigma and he may be worthless for the season.

KAMM BENCHED
Dush's latest shift is the benching of Bill Kamm, one of the best fielding third basemen in the game. Kamm has been a regular since rejoining the Sox in the spring of 1923. Never a great hitter he hit low this spring and his failure to join in the slugging jubilee toward Bush to send living Jeffries a Texas league youngster to the far turn.

Smead Jolley is another of Dush's problems. The giant is a capable batter and proving it daily. But he's a stranger to entirely too many fly balls and beside him old Ham Hyatt would be a star fielder. Donnie has shifted Jolley to left field—out of the sun—in hope he can do better there. Bush must keep Jolley in the game for one doesn't bench a .340 batter.

"The Sox manager has started his ivory hunters on the trail of new material for 1931. He has told them to dig up candidates for every position and Charles Comiskey has taken the rubber off the bankroll. "Commy" always has been willing to spend lavishly for players. Back in the harness again and with a manager he knows can produce a winner the old Roman will go any lengths to get the needed men.

Of the present team only Lyons, Cossell and Reynolds seem good enough to be permanent. So the Sox trackers face a heavy season out in the bush.

HICKEY ENTHUSIASTIC

"It looks like a life saver for the game in many cities," Hickey said.

Amateur spring season race at Indiana was up 7 per cent but a drop of 12 per cent, computed with last spring's card.

HAMLIN VOTES TO QUIT MIDWEST LEAGUE

NEW YORK GIANTS WIN 9TH STRAIGHT; CUBS DOWN PHILS

Senators Within Game and a Half of Top After Beating Chi Sox

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ESPIE a nine-game winning streak by their dread rivals, the New York Giants, Wilbert Robinson's amazing Brooklyn Robins continue to show their heels to the rest of the National league field and confidently look forward to their first pennant since 1920.

The Giants took Pittsburgh over the hurdles, 9 to 2, yesterday, but gained not one inch of ground as the Robins, behind Dazzy Vance's great pitching, routed the Cincinnati Reds, 2-1. Vance held the Reds to four hits but it took a pinch single by Al Lopez in the ninth to bring the Robins victory.

The Giants slammed Maine and Jones for 16 solid hits to trounce the Pirates who found Karl Hubbell a mystery they could not solve.

Charley Root's fine pitching enabled the Chicago Cubs to break their losing streak at Philadelphia's expense, 6 to 2. Cuyler's homer with two on in the third gave Root all the runs he needed to win. The victory left the Cubs in second place, three and a half games behind the Robins and a game and a half ahead of the Giants.

In the American league, Washington's Senators advanced to within a game and a half of first place by whipping Chicago, 2 to 1, while the Philadelphia Athletics were bowing to Cleveland, 6 to 2.

Lefty Grove, Athletics' left handed ace, went nearly two months without losing a game but was charged with his second defeat in as many days yesterday.

Washington scored the winning run against Chicago in the ninth inning. Hadley, Washington pitcher, allowed only two hits for seven innings but was removed after Smead Jolley's triple with Kerr on tied the score in the eighth. Braxton held the Sox safe thereafter.

Detroit lost on a seven-run rally in the seventh to trounce the New York Yankees, 13 to 7.

Other scheduled major league games were postponed.

SCHAAF WINS DECISION FROM TOM LOUGHRAN

Philadelphia—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, Boston sailor boy, won the decision over Tommy Loughran, former light heavyweight champion, in a ten round bout at the Municipal stadium Wednesday night. Schaaf weighed 200 pounds, Loughran 185.

The bout was the third meeting of the two, each having won a decision in previous engagements. Approximately 20,000 persons saw the battle, which opened the outdoor boxing season here.

Schaaf fought an aggressive battle all the way and despite Loughran's reputation at a clever boxer, the Boston brawler landed more blows than his opponent.

The Boston sailor's right caught Tommy on the jaw and he went down for count of three in the first round, the only knockdown of the fight. In succeeding rounds Schaaf opened cuts on Loughran's forehead and eye, and had him bleeding from the nose and mouth.

LD Father Time, that annihilator of everything is dimming the eyes of world war vets who are members of the American legion softball team, and is making the bones and muscles creak. That, it seems, is the only answer to the fact that the vets last night got but three hits and one run and lost the evening's game to members of Co. D, 12th Infantry, 4 and 1.

The only legator McGee singled in the fifth inning when McGee singled Johnny Bauer of the guardsmen booted Albright's grounded and the soldiers became careless and tossed away a couple perfect outs on three fielders' choices.

Co. D, scored its first run in the initial inning. Hugh Piette tallying when Frank Wheeler erred on his grounder. He then stole second and third to cross the rubber while the vets were throwing out Wally Klein.

The second run came in the third frame when Earl Zuehlke walked, went to second on an infield out and stole third scoring on Green's drive through right short. A double play in the inning saved the vets from being scored on a couple extra times. Currie was on second with a mate on first when Piette hit to third base, forcing Currie and Smead tossed to first base getting Piette.

Two more tallies were counted for the Guards in the sixth frame as result of three hits. Green started scoring after hits was away by doubling to right field. He then scored on Wally Klein's double to left. Wally being out trying to reach third base. Muenster followed at bat and riled a drive that Eddie Smead failed to snag and it went for an error. "Minnie" then stole second and third and scored on a single by Rube Schuster.

Wally Klein tossed for the Guards and gave three hits, struck out six batters and walked only one. Lothar Grad tolled for the legion and gave five hits, walked four batters and whiffed two.

EXPECT YANKS TO WIN WIGHTMAN CUP

American Team Led by Helen Wills Is Stronger Than British

Wimbledon, England.—(AP)—The eighth Wightman cup tennis series, to be played here tomorrow and Saturday, finds the United States strongly favored to win its fifth victory in the competition begun in 1923.

On paper at least, the American team headed by Mrs. Helen Wills Moody appears much more formidable than the English squad and expert observers will not be surprised if the invaders win by a greater margin than the 4-3 advantage they held last year.

The series consists of seven matches, five singles and two doubles. Two singles and one doubles match will be played in Friday and three singles and one doubles on Saturday.

The pairings:
Friday—Stage, Mrs. Moody vs. Joan Fry; Helen Jacobs, United States, vs. Mrs. Holcroft Watson; Doubles, Edith Cross and Sarah Palfrey, United States, vs. Miss Fry and Miss E. H. Harvey.

Saturday—Singles, Miss Jacobs vs. Miss Fry, Mrs. Moody vs. Mrs. Watson; Miss Palfrey vs. Miss P. Mudford; doubles, Mrs. Moody and Miss Jacobs vs. Mrs. L. A. Godfree and Mrs. Watson.

DID YOU KNOW THAT
I F Max Schmeling beats Jack Sharkey, one of the happiest people in the world will be little Andre Routis, former featherweight champion, who is a close friend of the German's. . . Routis is a Frenchman, and when he was training for his crack at Tony Canzoneri and the feather title in 1928, Maxie was in the same camp in New Jersey. . . and when Andre won Max and Andre hugged and kissed and cried all over the place. . . St. Louis used to be a roaring baseball town, but 1000 people is a vast crowd in the park these days. . . Both Browns and Cards use the same field. . . Talk of moving the Cardinals' franchise to Detroit is being revived. . . The fellow next to you when the Cardinals are playing at home is likely to ask, "Who's managing this team now?" . . . Which reminds us that Gabby Street has lasted a long time as boss of the team Sam Brodman runs. . . Sharkey's training camp, Gus Wilton's, is near Sleepy Hollow where the "headless horseman" used to do his stuff. . . Sharkey didn't ride horseback, however, so the origin of the term remains obscure.

Valley League Gossip

Valley league moguls met in Appleton Sunday night and talked business. President Baetz issued instructions that the games be speeded up and gave orders to umpires that the discoloring of news balls must be stopped.

The annual "pleasure session" of the league moguls is scheduled at Green Bay, Sunday evening, July 6. Boneless fish and other refreshments are on the menu, which promises to satisfy even the worst of the umpire baiters.

The Valley league moguls have given Marty Lamers, manager of the Kim-Little Chute club, permission to hire an "outside" hurler. Since Pucan departed, the Papermakers have been up against it for first class slugging.

The Appleton club will probably be without the services of Capt. Eddie Kotal for about two months as the Lawrence football mentor plans to enroll at Columbia university and brush up in some advanced gridiron "class work."

Green Bay is figuring on an "old timers" reunion before the Fourth of July game with Appleton. Dutch Brautigan, Harry Sylvester, Herman Sanders and the two chiefs, Williams and House, are among those who will get bids.

Two crucial conflicts are billed this Sunday. Kaukauna and Wisconsin Rapids will lock horns in an argument for second place while the cellar ownership is to be decided at the "Bay" where Kim-Little Chute is to play.

Appleton expects to pack 'em in this week at the Nee-Menasha game. The three other neighboring valley teams are booked for foreign fields and "Boss" Schabo is talking about putting up extra bleachers at Brandt park.

"Specs" Easting of Wisconsin Rapids is carrying around his portside hurting him in moth balls this week. The left hander bruised his finger badly while handling hard hit drives in the game at Green Bay.

Shorty Wenzel, the Kaukauna backstop, is throwing out his chest again in Babe Ruth style. In the game against Appleton, the paddist stepped to the plate with the hassocks "drunk" and rapped the ball over the fence.

Gabby McLean lost his whistle once in the Wisconsin Rapids game. "Mac" was on third and the signal was issued for a double steal. Zuidmuller snagged Glick's throw and his peg to Clusman caught McLean by more than a whistle.

Joe Muench, co-manager of the Nee-Menasha Falls, is hobbling around on crutches as a result of a collision with a base runner in the Kaukauna game a week ago. Muench may not see action again before July Fourth.

Norman Clusman joined the home run class in the Wisconsin Rapids fracas. Coming up in the tenth with the Rapids a run to the good, the Green Bay third sacker "airplaned" the horse-hire over the center field "timber."

Cully Schultz is giving a good account of himself around the red light station for Appleton. A year ago, Schultz was injured by a pitched ball but this hasn't darkened his batting eye as he stands up there and cuts well.

Thein is playing bang up ball for Kim-Little Chute in the sun field. Some of the fans figured that the going in the pasture might be a bit too fast for the old third sacker but he is coming through with bells on.

Wisconsin Rapids sure has got a murderer's row. There isn't a weakling with the stick in the line up and what's more even a couple of the bench warmers are able to go in there and bat at a .300 plus average.

Dame Rumor has it that an American association team scout has been giving several of the Valley leaguers the "double o." Some of the youngsters are coming along rapidly and they may get a chance to move up.

John Coppers, the Valley league treasurer, takes special pride in his Kaukauna ball park. Back in the olden days, John used to be ground keeper and even now he ventures forth and sandpapers the infield rough spots.

It is pretty tough when your brother is pitching and you boot away four ground balls. That's what happened to Gordon Zuidmuller, Bay shortstop in the Wisconsin Rapids game. Gloom around him was about knee deep.

"What blind-men are working today?" That was his query popped by a fan at Umpire Casey Jansen recently. Casey hadn't donned his togs and the fan didn't know him. As yet, Jansen's reply hasn't been translated.

Springfield, Ohio, made 11 home runs in a Central league game with Fort Wayne, Ind.

MUD HENS WRECK ST. PAUL BID FOR ASSOCIATION LEAD

Indianapolis Wins Terrific Hitting Contest from Brews, 19-14

CHICAGO (AP)—St. Paul's bid for the leadership of the American association, fairly promising a week ago, has faded and the Saints were battling today to keep from dropping into third place. St. Paul's current visit in Toledo has produced nothing but misery for Lefty Leifield's club. Yesterday the Mud Hens whittled out a 5 to 4 triumph to make it three in a row over the Saints. Louisville also was defeated, but retained its margin of five and one-half games over St. Paul. While the latter was only one-half game ahead of the Columbus Senators.

The Saints yesterday got away to a four-run lead in the first inning, but the Mud Hens, led by Max Rosenfeld and Conlan, pecked away and finally squeezed out a one-run victory. Joe Maley pitched steadily ball to lead Kansas City to a 4 to 1 victory over Louisville. Maley gave the league leaders eight hits and kept them well spaced until the ninth. Milwaukee and Indianapolis staged a vicious batting contest in which the Indians were victorious by 18 to 11. Indianapolis cracked Strelecki and Stelley for 20 hits which were good for 34 bases. Outfielder Dorman, who recently was obtained from Cleveland and who served with Kansas City for several games, was leader of the Indian attack with his three doubles and a triple. The Brewers got 13 hits, of which Bennett and Stelley were responsible for three each. The night contest was rained out.

Columbus outthit Minneapolis, 13 to 6, but the Millers collected theirs in bunches and scored an 8 to 6 victory.

SOCIAL SERVICE METHODS RAPIDLY CHANGING YEARLY

Over $300,000,000 Spent Annually in Service Work in America

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Boston (CPA)—About $300,000,000 is spent in social service work in America every year. Community chests raise and expend about $65,000,000. The disparity of these figures, the latter sum representing the most notable effort in the pooling of work and funds, indicates the diffusion, complexity and spread of the still unorganized and most heavily financed social betterment drive in the world.

The fifty-seventh annual meeting of the National Conference and Social works, now in session here, reveals such a profusion of earnest and disinterested movements, agencies, societies and welfare organizations as to indicate that the social workers must soon start doing case work on each other, or else soon run out of raw material.

They have taken in all sciences which have any direct bearing on human welfare or behavior. They have sought to fit legislative powers and functions into a pattern of social amelioration.

The socialists reply that this work must be formulated and abstracted—that guerrilla warfare against crime, vice, poverty and disease will avail nothing.

Another sharply opposed alignment is revealed in the respective attitudes of psychiatrists and economists. Roughly, the former insist upon the adaptation of human beings to fit their environment, while the latter want to change the environment to fit human beings. Jessie Perlman, New York psychiatrist, told this writer of one of his conferees who rebuked a householder for turning off the radio and enjoining silence in the house so as not to wake the baby. "That's all wrong," said the psychiatrist. "This child has to live in a noisy world, and you ought to condition him for it."

Owen Lovejoy, New York veteran of social service work, who stresses environmental factors, scoffed at this point of view. "If that's true," he said, "they ought to hang the kid in a basket on one of the tresses of the elevated railroad."

While the main division thus involves the question of whether to make over the world or to make over the individual, there are, of course, the middle-of-the-roads, who believe that social effort must be concentrated on both jobs.

One noteworthy aspect of this conference appears in the absence of both cranks and utopians, who used to enliven and sometimes bewilder its sessions in the past. Wild-eyed doctrinaires are missing and there is an almost oppressive sanity and decorum in all the proceedings.

One thinks of William James, who departed from the suave amenities of a Lake Geneva Chautauqua in the hope of finding a nice, interesting Armenian massacre.

They have drawn on the universities, as great reservoirs of generalized knowledge of human relationships; they have searched for fundamentals in the field of economics.

ship has not yet emerged and old Omar's "forty jarring sects" all could be nicely accommodated in this highly diversified lineup. Season opinion is that the younger, more aggressive social workers, trained in psychiatry, will attain leadership and focus the movement in scientific and highly objective governmental functions.

The old days of wild cat social service works are over and the movement is to be grounded in new exactitudes, seeing clearly what it wants and how to get it. Miriam Van Waters, of Los Angeles, president of the conference, is typical of this

5,220 GIRLS FINISH MOTHERCRAFT COURSE

Madison (AP)—Certificates will be given to 5,220 school girls this year on the completion of a year's course in infant hygiene, the state board of health announced today. The number of "graduates in mothercraft" this year exceeds by far the number of any previous year. Certificates are signed by Dr. C. A. Harper, state board of health officer and Dr. Charlotte J. Calvert, director of the bureau of child welfare and are embellished with the great seal of the state.

The course, given through four administrative departments of the state, instructs school girls in the basic principles of the care, feeding and clothing of the average normal baby in the first year of life. Approximately 150 public schools offered the course for eighth and ninth grade students this year, the board of health announced.

This, however, is not the only line of cleavage in the group of 5,000 delegates here. The social workers accuse the university social workers of "high hatting" them.

NON-SKID TIE

Paris—The non-skid necktie has made its appearance in France. Sheets and threads of rubber are put together to form either the four-in-hand or bow tie, and these are vividly colored to suit the wearer's taste. It is said that the ties will last longer because they will not fray or wear out, but it is not said whether or not they will stretch out of shape.

Kaukauna News

STUDENTS ENROLL IN MUSIC COURSE AT NORMAL SCHOOL

Receive Registrations from
All Over State, Hagman
Reports

Kaukauna—Enrollments in the summer music course to be offered at the Outagamie Rural Normal school, starting next week Monday, are being received from all over the state, according to W. P. Hagman, principal. The course is being given under the direction of Dr. Earl Baker of Appleton.

The music course is something entirely new in the curriculum. For the first time a course of this nature is being offered to teachers for the purpose of enabling them to teach music in the rural schools. The idea was originated by Dr. Baker and was first tried out in the rural school last year. It immediately met with success and in a short time most of the schools in this and other counties had adopted the plan. Starting next Monday the course will be given five days a week until July 11. Classes will be held in the afternoon. The course will be demonstration work, so that teachers may ascertain at first hand just what to do in presenting music lessons in school.

The course is outlined in three parts: music fundamentals and theory, a thorough and practical course designed to teach the rudiments of music; rural school music methods, a complete course projecting the teaching of rural school music in all of its phases; and music appreciation, a practical, cultural course with emphasis on the study, interpretation and participation in 100 of the world's greatest masterpieces.

HOLDS COMMUNITY RESPONSIBLE FOR NURSING SERVICE

Can't Confuse Hospital, Student Nurse Needs, Delegates Hear

Milwaukee—(P)—The responsibility of the community for the type of nursing service produced in its local hospitals was emphasized in a speech by Stella Goostrey, director of the School of Nursing, Children's hospital, Boston, before delegates to the biennial convention here today of three national organizations. "So long as hospital needs and the educational needs of student nurses are confused, there will continue to go out into the community, inadequately prepared and ill-adapted young women," the speaker warned her audience. "The problems of nursing education cannot be solved by nursing educators alone nor yet by the nursing profession. They belong to the purchaser of nursing service, the public."

The standards of admission to school of nursing is preliminary education, in age and personal fitness, the content of the basic training and other essentials of adequate preparation for nursing, must be based upon the analysis of what the nurse today must do, both in the hospital as a student nurse and later in the community, the speaker said.

"The standards which are now recommended by the National League of Nursing Education have been developed gradually through the experience and study of nurses who have been engaged in schools of nursing and know well the problems involved," Miss Goostrey pointed out. "It is believed they will insure a better quality of nursing service for the sick in the hospital and in the community."

A caution against too hasty generalizations respecting the nursing school curriculum was given by Clarence Stone Yeakum, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, Northwestern University, who preceded Miss Goostrey on the program.

"There is today a great preponderance of theory, or tradition and of fashion in the forming of curriculum in all phases of education," he said. "Because of this lack of fundamental facts, we are compelled to record changes which are confusing. There is no definite body of principles to guide discussion and practice."

"The nursing profession must be warned against hasty conclusions respecting its curriculum and the forms of training most suitable. The relations which the forms of service rendered, the financial returns to be expected, and the social significance of the profession are to bear to the time spent in preparation and to the nature of the preparation, are not clearly indicated in existing social theory. What does seem to be indicated is scientific caution in accepting plausibly set forth proposals and strenuous thinking in building wisely for a more distant future than educational theory and practice have habitually done."

Madison—(P)—Wisconsin's average yield of oats during the past 10 years was 39 bushels per acre, an increase of 28 per cent over the 10-year period of 40 years ago, the Wisconsin and United States Departments of Agriculture announced here today.

Oats rank not lower than fourth place from the standpoint of acreage in any of Wisconsin's 71 counties. It is first in 13 counties, second in 45 and third in eleven. More than one-fourth of the state's crop land devoted to the 20 major crops is used for oats.

The state's yield per acre of oats dropped from 35.1 bushels per acre during the period of 1870 to 1879 to 30.4 bushels during the next 10-year period. Each succeeding decade saw an increase over the preceding one, however, the last decade showing an increase of more than two bushels per acre over the former 10-year period.

Acreage of oats was approximately 500,000 from 1868 to 1874. In 1929 the acreage was 2,270,000. An annual average of almost 45,000,000 bushels of oats have been produced during the last decade. Of this crop about 90,160,000 bushels were used as a livestock feed, the department said.

FARMER AT GREEN BAY CUTS CROP OF ALFALFA

BY W. F. WINSEY

Green Bay—Henry Baenen, route 1, is the first farmer the writer has seen this summer cutting a field of alfalfa for hay. The field contains eight acres and will yield about a load and one-half per acre. The alfalfa is slightly mixed with sweet clover which is an ideal condition for the first cutting as the sweet clover helps the alfalfa and disappears after the first cutting.

To turn all the leaves into the center of the windrow where they can be saved and the butts of all the stems to the surface of the windrow where they may be quickly dried by the sun and breezes, Baenen will use a side delivery rake. As the most valuable part of the feed in alfalfa is stored in the leaves, he is determined to save the leaves, and not to break them off with old fashioned hay rakes, tedders, and much tossing with pitchforks. At the proper time Mr. Baenen will turn the windrows one-half over, gently with the side delivery rake, use a self-loader and try in every way to save all the leaves.

Baenen cut his eight acre field of alfalfa on Monday, and has another field of four acres to cut. He is now pasturing

WISCONSIN INDIAN TREATMENT RAPPED BY COMMITTEEMAN

Cramton of Michigan Says
State Should Waive Claim to Indian Swamp Land

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Correspondent)

Washington — A vitriolic attack on Wisconsin's treatment of the Indians within her borders, made by Rep. Louis Cramton of Michigan, was revealed Wednesday when the hearings on the deficiency appropriations bill were made public. The question came up in connection with the request of the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the Bureau of the Budget for an appropriation of $25,000 to investigate the claim of the state to swamp lands in Wisconsin reservations, involving about 100,000 acres in these reservations to which the state has laid claim or is expected to lay claim. Wisconsin has appropriated $20,000 to survey these and other swamp lands in the state.

When told that the situation was in Wisconsin, Rep. Cramton said: "Is not that where half the up-lifting for the Indians comes from? Wisconsin and California contend for that honor."

"This idea is to elevate the Indian to elevate him right out of his lands in Wisconsin. The state has made an appropriation of $20,000 for the purpose of taking these lands away from the Indians."

"As a matter of fact, the two states that hold more about up-lifting the Indians than any other states are Wisconsin and California. California, I think, claims more and does less than most of them."

"Here is a case where the state is presenting a claim against the Indians in effect and the State of Wisconsin is making a large appropriation to attack the rights of the Indians within its borders, without making any provision for defense of their rights."

"There is legislation pending now that authorizes or proposes to authorize the Interior department to turn over to states the administration of Indian affairs within several states, to a large degree. If that were in effect, would it be deemed wise or expedient to turn over to the state of Wisconsin the defense of the rights of the Indians against this suit that is being brought by the state of Wisconsin to take the land away from them?"

"Whether or not this is true was not clear. Indian bureau officials pointed out that the appropriation was needed to permit the Indian bureau to protect the rights of the Indians to these lands, if they have a right to them, but Rep. Cramton refused to permit the appropriation to be provided in the bill, despite the request of the president for the fund."

Wisconsin has already laid claim to 43,000 acres of swamp lands in Menominee, Lac du Flambeau, and Bad River reservations. Some of these are believed to be valuable timber lands previously believed to be the property of the Indians."

Rep. Cramton then made the following suggestion: "Would it not be a very practical method of cooperation on the part of Wisconsin—we hear a good deal about cooperation from them—if they would just pass an act through the legislature waiving any claims to these Indian lands? They are citizens. The federal government is spending a very large amount of money for their development. When developed they are a great asset to the state of Wisconsin."

"Now, instead of requiring us to appropriate money to build up a bureaucratic government here to protect the interests of those Indian wards, I would think that the state of Wisconsin could afford to waive any claim, especially such a shadowy and uncertain claim as it is to these lands."

Indian Commissioner C. J. Neenan said that this suggestion had been made to the representatives of Wisconsin Indians, recommending that they appeal direct to the governor and other state officials.

Although it was pointed out that the money was needed to prevent the Indians from being dispossessed, Rep. Cramton cut the appropriation out.

Rep. Cramton also attacked the project for a new hospital for the Indians at Tomah, Wis., stating that he had been "preaching" for three years against this hospital and that the only result had been that the Indian bureau now sought to increase the cost of this hospital to $125,000 from the original estimate of $65,000. He let that appropriation go through, however.

MORE MARKET NEWS
Chicago — (AP) — Increasingly large shipments of corn fed hogs from Iowa to packing plants instead of through public stockyards has caused the federal department of agriculture to announce additional market news service, with headquarters in Des Moines, to report quantities and current prices of this "direct shipping" marketing practice.

The service will start on Aug. 1. Iowa now furnishes more than one-fourth of the nation's entire pork supply.

One hole will be 40 yards long and another will be 150 yards long. This is being done under direction of the county board building committee which had charge of construction of the addition to the sanatorium.

Work on the addition was completed this week and most of the contractor's equipment has been removed. During the last week a crew of men was engaged in final touches of beautifying the grounds. The final seeding took place this week.

$45,000,000 DEFICIT FOR AUSTRALIAN STATES

Canberra, Australia — (AP) — A deficit of $45,000,000 for the current fiscal year has been disclosed by the public accounts of the Australian states.

At the same time it was announced that the commonwealth loan council had approved the terms of the federal government's new loan of $50,000,000. It is for a period of eight years and will bear interest at the rate of 6 per cent. Australia's expenditure on loans in the fiscal year 1925-1926 was $220,000,000 and a scheme to reduce this in 1929-1930 to $100,000,000 was approved by the commonwealth loan council.

Murder at High Tide

By CHARLES G. BOOTH

Chapter 28
THE LITTLE GREEN STONE
LET us consider our principle clues," Flique continued. "We had first—what were they? The indiscretion of Mlle. Brent, a price ticket in the dead hand of monsieur, a rose petal, two roses, the blackness poor Granger trod into the carpet, the broken compartment in that safe, and the green bird that is broken in two. But do I enthrall? Not so. And why, you ask? Because they were not of the living tissue, all those. Did I not tell you?"

"Not even that price ticket?" I demanded. "Millionaires aren't shot with 35-cent price tags in their hands every day."

"Ah, that! A curious affair, mais oui, but not of the living tissue. I cannot tell you why. A secondary matter, perhaps. We shall see. And then poor Granger is killed and what have we?"

"That window was open when M. Annersley entered the room on Friday night! Did he not assure us that it was he who closed it?"

"There, my friend," and Flique spread his hands engagingly, "it is an open book. You have but to turn the pages. You will not tell me you cannot read what is written?"

"Le Balafre and Bec are out, then?" I asked, ignoring his challenge.

"I did not say so, M. l'Antiquaire."

"But they have no alibi to break!" I exclaimed, exasperated. "Moreover, both affairs imply a familiarity with the house and the movements of those in it which he Balafre and Bec could not have had."

"Yet I insist that those little ones have their place in this—um—tragic mosaic."

"Those advertisements in the Marseilles newspapers are significant, then?"

"Immensely so."

"And if they are, Dan Parados was Jules Lacote, the man who betrayed Bec and le Balafre!" I continued.

"Ah!" Flique exclaimed, beaming. "That I do not know. Anatole Flique is the principal agent of la Surete, the little man reminding me seriously, 'but he is not infallible.'"

Fortunately Manning appeared at that moment, a duster in her hand.

"Let us leave the good Manning to her duties," Flique suggested.

As we stepped onto the terrace, Flique glanced at the outside stair that led up the west side of the east wing to the flat roof above the sun room.

"So charming are these Californian—um—adaptations of our old-world architecture," Flique remarked, picking his words with care. "Consider that little stair. So enchantingly placed and so admirably useless. I shall wager you a cigar that it is never used. Oh, my good Manning," and Flique tapped on one window of the sun room.

The girl came running.

"That stair there, ma fille," Flique said. "Is it ever used?"

"Hardly ever, sir," Manning assured us. "It's just another pile of steps to keep swept."

"But that, my little one—is it not a labor of love? Could it be otherwise in this temple of beauty?"

"Oh, go on, Mr. Flique," and Manning giggled behind her duster. "I'm not anybody's 'little one.'"

Then seriously: "And it's no temple of beauty, sir—inside, anyhow. It's a wicked house and I don't care who hears me say so."

"The virtue of mademoiselle redeems it," Flique said, bowing solemnly. "It intrigues me, that little stair. Whose chamber do I see at the top of it?"

"Mrs. Parados," Manning said. "Ah! And there is a door. It opens into madame's chamber?"

"Well, not exactly," Manning replied. "You see, there's a bedroom and a bathroom and a—you know, a little bath, in between."

"And the roof door? see up there opens into the little hall—is that it?"

"Yes, sir."

Flique beamed. "It is clear that mademoiselle is a woman of intelligence."

"I try to make the best of the talents that were given to me, sir," Manning said.

And now it's Mrs. Parados' Flique uncovers more "surprise evidence" tomorrow.

"Who could doubt it?" Flique inquired, and I wondered what his game was. "And now, mademoiselle," he continued, "you will remember that monsieur was killed between half-past six and seven on Friday evening?"

"Indeed I do, Mr. Flique."

"And you were with madame every moment of that tragic half hour, yes?"

"I was, sir. I told Mr. Samuels, too."

"Mais oui. That is to say, you were with madame every moment of the half hour except, of course, for the interval of ten minutes—in which she bathed?"

"Of course, sir," and Manning simpered. "Madame bathes herself, sir—"

"To be sure," Flique chuckled. "And when she had prepared herself for the bath and slipped on her green robe—"

"Her blue robe, sir. Her robin's-egg blue—"

"Inebriate that I am!" Flique cried vehemently. "Her robin's-egg blue to be sure! And then she went into the hall that opens into the bathroom, shutting the bedroom door behind her, while you, my little one, plied your twinkling needle—"

"Why, yes, I did," and Manning, being economical and all that, was letting out one of her gowns.

Flique bowed acquiescently. "But madame went into the little hall, shutting the door behind her—"

"Oh, yes, Mr. Flique."

"And perhaps she had one hand thrust deep into a pocket of her robin's-egg blue gown? No? I am wrong?"

"Oh, but she had, sir!" Manning burst forth excitedly. "She seemed to be holding something tight and I wondered what it was."

"Mademoiselle would, being a woman of intelligence," Flique murmured gravely. "But madame was—um—nervous, perhaps?"

"Yes, she was," Manning cried, glowing. "All upset. But I didn't think much of it, for Mr. Parados never treated her properly. But she needn't have snapped at me the way she did when I showed her that little stone I found on the carpet."

"A little green stone?"

"That's all it was, sir," Manning continued warmly. "I showed it to her and she knocked it out of my hand. I thought she was going to slap my face. Really I did, sir."

"Mademoiselle has her problem. But who has not, I ask you?" Flique laughed.

"That's right, sir," Manning sighed piously. "We all have our crosses."

"Mademoiselle has the philosophy, also," Flique beamed, and he chuckled Manning under the chin. "But this little green stone—you have it, oui?"

"No, sir, I haven't. When I looked for it, it was gone. Mademoiselle must have picked it up."

Flique shrugged. "A nothing," he murmured casually. "It happened, after madame had bathed."

"Yes, sir. You always guess right, Mr. Flique."

"Mademoiselle tempted me to try again," Flique said, bowing. "Tell me, when madame entered her bathroom you heard—um—water running?"

"Yes, I did," and Manning nodded vehemently. "For maybe four or five minutes it was, too. It surprised me for I'd always prided myself on having madame's bath just right. That's what made her so touchy," Manning's face at this became troubled and she began to pluck at her apron. "I don't know why you are asking me all these questions, Mr. Flique. I do hope I'm not saying anything I shouldn't."

"Non, non," Flique protested, spreading his plump hands engagingly. "Mademoiselle is a jewel of discretion. Those questions—pouf! What are they but to settle a point with M. l'Antiquaire? It is done. Mademoiselle may return to her duties."

"Reassured, Manning departed, and Flique regarded me with a twinkle.

"Flique," I said, "you have broken two more alibis."

REAL BULLET HOLES
LATEST INVENTION
IN TALKIE MOVIES

Latest Aerial Warfare Picture Shows How Actors Really Are Wounded

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1930, by Cons. Press)

Hollywood, Calif. —They've gone so ingenious in the talkies now that when a gentleman shoots another gentleman, the audience actually sees the bullet hole. A real bullet hole, without fake, cutback, or optical illusion. Realistic? Say!

It has been done only once so far. But since "Hell's Angels" has started the idea, the films from now on will doubtless be full of wound-peppered victims.

In the talkie of aerial warfare, due to reach New York and the country in general during the summer, James Hall shoots Ben Lyon in the back. Bang! And a nice, round bullet hole, its edges wet and dark, is drilled through Ben's sweater. Bebe Daniels, who marries Ben this week, gulped when she saw that wound at the show's premiere, although Ben, alive and well, sat beside her at the moment.

One guess is that Ben himself gulped when Hall nicked him. There are pleasanter ways of spending a spare five minutes than waiting to have a fellow plug you in the back from an authentic forty-five, despite an assurance from the director that it won't hurt. Not very much.

Instead of a veritable bullet, they used a wad of wet paper. If you ever threw spitballs in school, you know how hard a wad of wet paper can smack. From a forty-five it smacks harder. That wad penetrated a heavy wool sweater, and landed with sufficient impact against a heavy flannel shirt and a heavy wool undershirt to leave a bruise on Ben's back the size of a teacup. His shoulder was lame for a week afterward.

Just another proof that stars of ten earn their salaries.

$118,520 IN BUILDING
AUTHORIZED IN MAY

Building permits totalling $118,520 were issued during May by John N. Weiland, building inspector. Included in the list were five residences evaluated at $25,600; 10 residences and garages, cost $14,500; 16 residences and additions and alterations, $8,025; 23 garages, $4,195; four mercantile, $3,200 and two manufacturing, $3,000.

Weiland issued 60 building permits, 17 heating and nine sign permits during the month. He made 108 building inspections, 20 heating and 17 sign inspections and held two meetings of the Board of Appeals. He investigated 41 complaints and calls.

KONJOLA GAVE QUICK RELIEF, OTHERS FAILED

Green Mountain Lady Enthusiastic About New Medicine —"Can't Praise It Enough," She Says

MISS PEARL STOVER

"Konjola is truly a wonderful medicine and it gave me relief after other medicines and treatments failed," said Miss Pearl Stover, Green Mountain, Ia. I underwent an operation about fourteen years ago and since that time I have undergone several more. I suffered almost constant pain in my stomach, back and neck. At times I could scarcely walk. My heart was weak. Constipation bothered me constantly and my nerves were in a terrible condition.

"I read a good bit about what Konjola was doing for others and decided to try it. It surely did the work in my case. It relieved my stomach ailment and calmed my nerves until I can sleep more easily than I have in years. Constipation is a thing of the past and I am gaining in weight and strength. I cannot praise this great medicine enough and I hope others may be induced to give Konjola a trial."

Konjola contains no alcohol, no ve-deadening drugs and no heart-repressing chemicals. It is all pure medicine and when given for a real cure over a period of from four to six weeks, has made an amazing record.

Konjola is sold in Appleton, Wis., Schlinz Bros. Drug Store, and by the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

What Scientists Are Learning
STUDY SOFT METALS
TO FIND ITS USES

Bureau of Mines Would Determine More Commercial Uses for material

Washington — (P) — Metals, soft enough to be cut with a knife, which decompose water at ordinary temperatures are being studied by the bureau of mines to find wider commercial uses for them.

Of this group of alkali metals, caesium and rubidium must be kept in a vacuum because if placed in dry oxygen at room temperature they ignite spontaneously.

Caesium, rubidium and lithium generally occur together in nature. It is pointed out that silvery white and of very light weight, they tarnish rapidly in air.

Discovered through use of the spectroscopic, caesium and rubidium are employed in the manufacture of photo-electric cells. Caesium is finding use in the manufacture of radio tubes. Lithium is widely employed for medicinal purposes. In pyrotechnics, lithium chloride is used to give a crimson color to fireworks and signal lights.

Although the minerals from which these three metals may be extracted are distributed rather widely in nature, the known minerals and deposits rich enough to furnish large supplies are few, bureau chemists say.

WORLD FAIR TO REVIVE
HUMAN GAS METERS

Chicago—(P)—The first American gas meter was a man.

When illuminating gas was first introduced there were no meters, but customers agreed to turn it off after a specified hour.

Gas inspectors were appointed. Records show that on their rounds these inspectors frequently rapped on windows to remind their customers that they were using over-time gas.

These old scenes will be reproduced in the scientific exhibits at the 1933 World Fair here.

20 Scientists Beard
Weather Lion In Lair

Alfred Lothar Wegener (inset) with 20 scientists is making a survey in the "home of the weather on the 10,000 foot roof of Greenland's ice cap. Below is stranded iceberg, with the U. S. Marion passing a Greenland glacier at the edge of the sea (top).

Unimak, Greenland — (P) — Ten tons of scientific equipment is on its way to the 10,000 foot roof of Greenland's ice cap, the spot regarded as the "focus" of all cold weather.

The equipment is part of the supplies of Professor Alfred Lothar Wegener's glaciological expedition. It goes to a permanent scientific depot on the ice said to be the first ever manned throughout an arctic winter.

The location is called the "focus" of northern weather because previous investigations have shown that winds blow continually outward in all directions from Greenland's ice cap.

Recently, considerable evidence has been collected that this immense ice sheet is the controlling

'BOLONEY' REALLY MEANS SOMETHING TO WEATHERMAN

Superior, Wis.— (P) — To the weatherman, the weather is often "boloney."

"Boloney," as Forecaster Herbert W. Richardson points out, is the word used in weather dispatches to indicate a certain barometric pressure.

In winter the prediction is often for "Ximtusser," which means snow.

"Work girl," "weeping" and "wagon" are various types of thunderstorms.

PATIENT BREATHE
IN TANK FOR 3 WEEKS

Cambridge, Mass. — (P) — Effortless breathing is accomplished by a respirator perfected by Professor Philip Drinker and A. L. Shaw of Harvard.

The patient is placed inside an air tight tank. A suction pump creates a slight vacuum about the patient's body.

Air rushes through the nose and throat into the lungs, expanding them to fill some of the vacuum about the body, and so to equalize pressure.

This breath is forced out by reversing the pump. This respirator has been used continuously on one patient for three weeks.

factor in starting many storms throughout the whole northern hemisphere.

This home of the weather is well guarded against man's prying. The first leg of the journey from here will be made with ice-land parties and Greenland huskies, carrying 70 tons of scientific equipment.

The second and last leg is a stretch of 250 miles, beginning at the foot of Kamurjuk glacier.

Sixty tons of the equipment will be left in a base camp at the foot of the glacier, and 100-horse power motor sledges will attempt to drag the remaining 10 tons up the slopes to the ice cap.

With Wegener are 20 scientists. They will make trigonometrical surveys of the ice cap.

Former surveys have been based upon barometric pressures to indicate altitude. The trigonometrical heights are expected to be correct to within 30 feet.

Wegener is professor of meteorology and geophysics at the Austrian university of Graz. He is 49, married, and has three daughters.

SMILE AND FROWN YIELD
SECRETS OF OPERATION

Washington — (P) — The smile is now under the microscope and the frown is being dissected.

In his effort to learn all about facial expressions Dr. E. Huber, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, has found in his studies at Johns Hopkins that the specific problem of the origin and evolution of movement of the face involves not only muscles but nerve supply and the control center in the brain cortex.

His studies are largely with monkeys, both by observation and dissections. In lower forms he finds the primitive face muscles practically restricted to movement of the mouth, ears and eyes.

Dr. Huber's dissections show him that in man the brain control areas are differentiated first, followed by differentiation of muscles and nerve fibers. Individuals, he says, vary decidedly in their power of voluntary control of facial muscles, possibly accounting for the difference between good and poor actors.

MODERN LIFE DEVELOPS
MANY NEW EYE STRAINS

New York — (P) — All sorts of eye strains are imposed by complex modern conditions, says a report to the American Engineering Council by its eyesight conservation council.

These strains include rapid and universal use of artificial light in the home, school and workshop; general spread of printing, popularity of motion pictures, "the running to and fro of the motor vehicle," and concentration of masses of population in cities.

EEL'S LOST SCALES DUE TO DISC-LIKE MOUTH

Princeton — (P) — Scientist who hold that the tools make the man have a supporting argument in eel studies by Prof. William Berryman Scott of Princeton.

"Tools" in this scientific sense are mechanisms such as hands.

Dr. Scott seeking to learn why the lamprey eel has lost its scales traces the cause to the eel's mouth. "The sucking, disc-like mouth," he says in a report to the American Philosophical Society, "set with rows of horny teeth, is a specialization which no other vertebrates have acquired."

"It is this development which so modifies and disguises the life history."

SO COMFORTABLE SO EASY TO DRIVE

If you want to know what restful riding comfort and what delightful ease of handling you really can have in a moderately priced car, come drive an Oldsmobile.

For both Oldsmobile's beautiful Fisher body and its fine, dependable chassis are designed with particular attention to comfort and convenience.

Body interiors are generously proportioned—with ample head room and leg room. Seats are wide and deep-cushioned. Relaxation is invited the minute you take your place in the car.

Examination of the chassis reveals additional reasons why travel should be so restful. Springs are long and flexible... controlled in action by four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers. A low center of gravity and balanced weight contribute to roadability—an important factor in comfort and safety.

As for ease of handling, you will discover the reasons as soon as you take the wheel and drive. True fingertip steering... smooth, quiet gear-shifting... instant acceleration... and quick-acting, fully-enclosed, four-wheel brakes.

You will enjoy driving Oldsmobile because it is so comfortable, so easy to handle... and so alert and capable in every respect. Come try it—over roads of your own choice. You will find it an unusual car in many ways—and a great one in all.

COUNTY SEES REAL BATTLE AT ELECTION

Nomination Papers Now Available at County Clerk's Office

BY H. K. DERUS
Candidates for political offices in Outagamie-co may secure their nomination papers and begin circulating them among the voters today. They have more than 60 days in which to file the papers with John E. Hant-schel, county clerk.

Despite the fact that no papers could be placed in circulation until today, advance indications are that the county will witness as strenuous a race for at least three offices as has ever been seen here in a long time.

The races will center about the offices of district attorney, sheriff and assemblyman from the first Outagamie-co district.

For sheriff there will be at least nine or 10 candidates, although but one has made public announcement of his intention to run. He is Otto H. Zuehlke, Appleton, who has served the county for two terms as sheriff. Sheriff John Lappen, incumbent, has not announced his candidacy, but it is expected he will run.

Other names mentioned in connection with this office are Peter G. Schwartz, another former holder of this office; Ex-sheriff Fred W. Giese, who was ousted from office by Governor Kohler and who is now under indictment for conspiracy to violate the federal dry laws; Leslie O. Hansen, Barney Hoffman, Peter Traas, William Wolf, Ralph Lockery and F. H. Menner.

STALE FACES FIGHT

For the office of district attorney there already have appeared three candidates. These are Stanley A. Stadel, incumbent, Alfred Bradford and Samuel Sigman. All three will seek the Republican nomination. Bradford is a newcomer in the political field, while Sigman and Stadel have passed through at least one campaign.

Two candidates have avowed their intention of seeking election as assemblyman from the first county district. These are Oscar J. Schmegg, incumbent, and C. B. Ballard, town of Grand Chute. Schmegg was elected by an immense majority at the last election. Ballard has been in politics for years. He was defeated for the chairmanship of the town of Grand Chute last spring by August W. Laabs. In addition, it is said, Mark Catlin, Appleton attorney and former coach at Lawrence college, will be a candidate for this office. Up to the present time, however, Catlin has not made any statement.

Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, will be opposed for office by Earl Bates, Appleton. Miss Ziegenhagen has not yet announced her intention to run but it is understood she will seek reelection.

DEMOCRATS ENCOURAGED

While up to the present time there has been little or no activity on the part of the Outagamie-co Democratic group to organize it is expected that the consideration of L. Hugo Koller, Appleton, for nomination for lieutenant governor on the Democratic ticket will give impetus to a campaign to secure votes in the county. The Democrats point out that in the last election Gov. Smith, the Democratic nominee for president, carried Outagamie co by 36 votes.

However, there has been little or no mention of the possibility of placing a strong Democratic ticket in the field. Martin Veihagen, Kimberly, is being mentioned as a Democratic candidate for sheriff and F. J. Rooney, Appleton attorney, has been mentioned as a Democratic candidate for district attorney.

And just recently it was mentioned that Anton "Casey" Jansen, village president at Little Chute, is aiming his cap at the ring where the contenders for the assemblyman's job from the second Outagamie-co district will battle. John Rohan, Democrat, was elected to that office in 1923 and will probably seek reelection. William Bay, prominent in labor circles at Kaukauna, has already announced he will seek the office as a Progressive Republican "Casey" is a Progressive, too, so it looks as if there might be a battle there.

LIFE'S ODDITIES

By George Clark

"You have no idea how utterly alone I feel."

NO APPLETON FIREMEN WILL ATTEND SCHOOL

No Appleton firemen will be sent to Madison from June 24 to 27 to attend the firemen's school there, according to Fire Chief George P. McGillan. Firemen from Little Chute, New London and Kaukauna, however, will attend. Chief McGillan said that since the summer vacation schedule is in effect it would be impossible to send delegates to the school because the department couldn't spare any men. The school is sponsored by the Industrial Commission, the Paid Firemen's association, the Volunteer Firemen's association, the Fire Chiefs' association, and the University Extension division.

YOU WANT JUST A LIGHT BREAKFAST

You want just a light breakfast "so you can do some real work"—and then you yield to the allurements of heavy foods until you are loaded down for the day, unable to do any clear thinking or planning. A breakfast of Shredded Wheat and milk is even more flavory and will give mental pep and physical alertness. It's ready-cooked and ready-to-eat—delicious for any meal.

MOTION PICTURE ABSOLUTE FAKE

"Ingagi" Was Filmed in Los Angeles, Calif., Business Bureau Says

Investigation by the National Better Business Bureau of complaints from various parts of the country questioning the advertising claims made for a current film announced as "authentic incontestable celluloid document" of gorillas, wild women and queer children in the jungles of Africa, discloses that the picture, "Ingagi," described as menacing gorilla, has been denounced by scientific and educational authorities, according to word received here by Kenneth "Orbett," secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Inquiry to the office of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, of which William H. Hays is president, brought the information that the picture was not produced by any member of that organization. The film pretends to be the work of two eminent scientific explorers, whose names are unknown to science, whose scientific society is unknown, and whose expedition into the Africa jungle of Los Angeles is unrecorded in scientific records, according to information received by the bureau.

In the film, the parts taken by the two explorers are played by actors, and their expedition sets out to prove a completely unscientific theory that gorillas mate with human beings.

How To Shop

By William H. Baldwin

With hair brushes it is quite often true that the more you pay the cheaper the brush is in point of service.

The main consideration to remember when selecting a hair brush are the evenness, the liveliness and spring of the bristles. They should be of the same diameter, stiffness and resiliency. If the bristles are too soft they will not penetrate and will, in a short time, become practically useless. Also, see that the bristles are firmly embedded in the back, that they do not pull loose, and that they spring back into place quickly on passing the hand over them.

In this connection, special care should be taken in selecting toilet cases and fitted overnight bags and suitcases. If the hair and clothes brushes in these special sets are not good, the sets will be of small value to the user, however handsome the case and fittings may appear to be.

Millions use it in tub, washer and dishpan

(Millions use Rinsol. Thousands write us letters like this.)

"How the suds last!"
says Mrs. F. Van Wyk, 1929 N. Appleton St.

"Think I'd scrub? Not when I can get clothes whiter with Rinsol, the hard-water soap! What active, soapy suds—and how they last! The water around here is hard, too. Rinsol's creamy suds soak out the dirt and my clothes come white so easily. This way saves the clothes; saves me work, too. I like Rinsol so much I use it for dishes and all cleaning."
